A LONG SESSION

Lands and Buildings Committes Award Contracts

FOR NEW SCHOOLHOUSES AND IMPROVEMENTS.

Councilman Penn Opposes Fuller-Warren System.

The committee on lands and buildings sat in Supt. Varnum's office for about three hours last evening and arranged for building new schoolhouses and making improvements on old ones.

The bids were as follows:

Carter street school, Carpenter work—C. H. Nelson, $9736; E. G. Twohey, $9327; E. W. Douglas, $8500; Whittet & McDonald, $7900; W. H. Wiggin, $7933.

Brick work—P. Corcoran, $14,914; Staples Bros., $13,721; F. O. White & Co., $13,500; J. Swett, $12,400; J. Jalbert, $12,152; P. O'Hearn, $11,564; J. H. Walker, $8497.

Plastering—J. H. Walker, common, $1917; D. M. Prescott, $1944; Walsh & Meers, $2099. There were higher figures for adamant and mixtures.

Sheet metal—H. H. Wilder & Co., $2059; W. A. Mack & Co., $1980; D. Cushing & Co., $1960; T. Costello & Co., $1898.

Iron and steel—Cushing & Co., $3275; Joel Knapp & Son, $2678; Chelmsford Iron Foundry Co., $2514.21.

Doors, sash and frames—Pratt and Forrest, $1349.40; Amasa Pratt & Co., $1267; Holmes & Bray, $1046.25.

Slating—R. Goulding & Son, $1266; J. L. Douglas, $1244; James Burns, $1190.

The contracts were awarded to W. H. Wiggin, J. H. Walker, T. Costello & Co., Chelmsford Foundry Co., Holmes & Bray, and James Burns in the several classes of work.

The Fuller & Warren Co., were given the contract for sanitaries at $1057. They were the sole bidders, no one else had a chance.

Pine Street School House.

Carpenter work—C. H. Nelson, $7160; M. I. Paine, $6533; E. W. Douglas, $5890; Wm. H. Wiggin, $4946.

Brick work—F. O. White, $2060; J. H. Walker, $1500; John Swett, $1390; P. Conlan, $850.

Plastering—J. H. Walker, $1082 and $1430, according to quality; Walsh & Meers, $1045 and $1400.

Doors, sashes and frames—Amasa Pratt & Co., $859; Pratt & Forrest, $835.56; Holmes & Bray, $738.50.

Plumbing—D. H. Wilson & Co., $704; Drury & Green, $697; H. R. Barker Co., $694; H. H. Wilder & Co., $687; Farrell & Conaton, $684; S. H. Jones, $683; Scott & O'Day, $675.

Gas piping—Scott and O'Day, $52; Costello & Co., $48; S. H. Jones, $46.50.

The figures of the slating were held back owing to a possible complication with another branch of work. J. L. Douglas, Goulding & Son and James Burns were the bidders.

Joel Knapp & Son, the only bidders, got the iron work at $24.

The Fuller & Warren Co. got the heating at $1160, and the sanitary, ten closets and one urinal, at $595.

The contracts for the general work were awarded to W. H. Wiggin, P. Conlon, Walsh & Meers, Holmes & Bray, Scott & O'Day, S. H. Jones, Joel Knapp & Son in the several classes. The slating contract went to James Burns, the lowest bidder, including sheet metal work.

Common plaster was selected for both school buildings.

Lincoln Street School House.

Plumbing—D. H. Wilson, $998; H. H. Wilder & Co., $994; Scott & O'Day, $989; Farrell & Conaton, $989; Drury & Green, $982; H. R. Barker Co., $972; S. H. Jones, $967, the latter getting the award.

Plain Street School House.

The Fuller & Warren Co got the contract for heating at $1666 and the sanitaries as before at $595.

Bartlett School House.

The Fuller & Warren Co. got the contract for 40 closets and a 20-foot urinal at $1652. The only bidders.

Lincoln School Addition.

The same company got the heating contract at $1121 and the sanitaries at $595, the only bidders.

The lowest bidder in each instance was awarded the contract.

The awarding of the heating contracts provoked a lively discussion. Councilman Penn stood firm against the Fuller-Warren system and advocated giving the preference to local bidders who, he believed, had a system just as good as the Fuller-Warren.

He also had a letter from Inspector White relative to the merit of other systems and Councilman Hounsell reminded him that in conversation with Inspector White, the latter found no fault with the Fuller-Warren system. But the committee decided upon the Fuller-Warren system and that settled it.

The Varnum school addition was next considered. The committee had already voted to build on the south side, but a change of sentiment has taken place and now the members favor building on the north side.

Alderman Dow, chairman of the committee on education, called that body to order,—for the two committees though they have the same members, have a different chairman—and heard a motion to rescind the previous vote of the committee regarding the building of the addition. It passed and also one recommending that the new part be built on the north end. Later the same committee voted to recommend the purchase of not more than 12,000 feet of land in Lexington avenue, off Varnum avenue for the construction of a two room primary school.

Then the lands and buildings committee was called to order again and voted to introduce a resolution into the city council providing for the transfer of $25,000 for the purchase of land on the north side of the Varnum school, and building the addition to the school.

A vote was then passed to introduce a resolution as for the transfer of not more than $4000 for the purchase of land in Lexington avenue for the erection of a new primary school. The superintendent of lands and buildings was empowered to draw up plans.

The chairman read a proposition from the owners of old city hall to heat Huntington hall, but no action was taken. Action was deferred on the building of a wall at the Lincoln school.

LOWELL MAN

Charged With Swindling Operations in Portsmouth, N. H.

The police of Portsmouth, N. H., yesterday, arrested C. M. Clark, alias C. E. Currier, of this city, charged with embezzlement. He represented himself as the agent of the Hartford Life Insurance Co., it is said, and swindled several people.

Clark kept out of the way until yesterday, when he was captured. He acknowledged his guilt and was willing to re-imburse one of his victims.

He is believed to have done the same trick in other cities.

HAVERHILL GAZETTE

Favors Free Silver and Condemns the Gold Standard.

The Haverhill Gazette is to be congratulated upon its endorsement of the democratic platform, so far as the principal of bimetallism is concerned. The Gazette is always fair and outspoken.—Lowell Sun.

The Gazette is not willing to admit that bimetallism is distinctly a democratic doctrine, though grateful to its Lowell contemporary for its words of commendation. There are as many republicans as democrats who believe in bimetallism, nor need it occasion surprise if they make themselves felt on election day.

The Gazette supports McKinley because he stands for protection, reciprocity and other things necessary to the welfare of the nation. If the currency was the only question up for settlement this year, it would cast its lot and throw whatever influence it possesses against the mistaken theory that the prosperity of this country is indissolubly connected with gold monometallism. It realizes, as everybody must, that to contract the money supply means hard times; that if we are ever to have prosperity our currency must be made more elastic.

Mitten's Company.

Company M went to camp this morning at Framingham. Four men, Corporal Zesewitz, Sergeant O'Connor, Privates Morrison and Kennedy left yesterday for the camping ground to make arrangements for the reception of their comrades.

Friday will be governor's day at the camp and it is expected that many Lowell people will be present on that occasion.

THE POPULIST FACTIONS

Very Much Divided Upon Choice of Candidates.

No Prospect of a Compromise—Republican Influence Felt in Opposition to Endorsing Bryan and Sewall—What Mr. Ignatius Donnelly Says.

St. Louis, July 21.—The "Middle of the Road" men express great confidence in their strength. More than 100 delegates to the Populist convention have registered at their headquarters. Of these seven expressed a preference for Bryan and two say they are for fusion on the electors. The others are pronounced for a straight ticket and a fight against the nomination or endorsement of Bryan. The delegates who registered came from all parts of the country, there being much more than a majority of the states represented. The "Middle of the Road" headquarters are at present in Chicago.

Sheridan Webster is chairman of the St. Louis Populist committee. He and several assistants are giving out badges and securing information as to the standing of the different delegations. Mr. Webster asserts that there is no doubt about the "Middle of the Road" controlling the convention. He expects a two-thirds' majority, he says. This estimate is based upon information that has been received from different states and from what delegates have said who have reported at headquarters.

At headquarters many expressions were heard indicating a disapproval of the endorsement of Bryan. One of the leaders was asked if there would be a bolt in case Bryan was endorsed, and he replied that it would never reach that stage; that the "Middle of the Road" men would control the convention from the start. There is not very much being said about the candidates, the "Middle of the Road" men saying they are perfecting arrangements to control the convention first, and consider candidates afterward.

Bryan Organization.

The delegates to the Populist convention favorable to the endorsement of Mr. Bryan have made permanent the temporary organization, electing J. B. Weaver chairman, and Messrs. Bailey, Young and Merratt secretaries. They also appointed a steering committee, with Mr. Weaver as chairman, to take in hand the movement for the endorsement of Mr. Bryan, and to act very much as silver steerers did at the Democratic convention at Chicago. The committee is to canvass the delegations as they arrive, and besides doing missionary work among them, is to constantly report to the full committee. An imperfect canvass of the delegates, so far as they had arrived, was reported, as a result of which the Bryan people make the following claims as to delegates: Alabama, 54; Colorado, 45; Delaware, 3; Illinois, 27; Iowa, 30; Nebraska, 51; Oklahoma, 9; California, 19; Indiana, 70; Kansas, 92; Maryland, 9; Nevada, 7; Pennsylvania, 40; West Virginia, 8; District of Columbia, 4; Utah, 5.

Besides these claims, Bryan's friends say they have had assurance of a large part, if not all, of Minnesota, Missouri, Oregon, Washington and Ohio delegations.

The "Middle of the Road" faction do not admit claims. They say, for instance, in the case of California they will get all but three votes, and in Iowa a majority. They also claim that Missouri and Washington will be with them instead of with the Bryan people. They admit that Alabama is doubtful. It is claimed that the solid votes of Texas, Mississippi and Florida are against the endorsement of Bryan's policy, so far as heard from.

No Compromise.

The prospect for a compromise, which some of the Populists affected for a while to consider probable, has disappeared. It met its fate in the Bryan camps, where it was smothered apparently beyond resuscitation.

The compromise proposition looking to the retention of Mr. Bryan at the head of the ticket, and substituting a Populist for Mr. Sewall for vice president, was sprung in the small hours of the morning in a promiscuous meeting of party leaders. It was afterward adopted by the executive committee of the national committee, and was by them exploited as a panacea, which would ease all the ills of the situation by uniting all the factions. The southern delegations accepted the scheme with avidity, on the theory that it would aid them in maintaining the entirety of the party for which they have held out so vigorously.

The Bryan people did not accept the suggestion from the beginning. They had no sooner heard of it than a Bryan meeting was called, which, in the forcible language of one who attended, "proceeded to immediately jump on it with both feet." This Bryan meeting and the one which followed, between representatives of the Bryan element and the executive committee, constituted the important events of the day. The result of these meetings is a probable split in the party, and the likelihood that the matter of endorsing Bryan or nominating another candidate, or the nomination of Bryan and another candidate than Sewall for vice president will have to be fought out in the convention.

The interesting proceedings began by a meeting of the executive committee in one of the rooms, and a meeting of the Bryan members in another. The prominent members of the Bryan movement, including J. B. Weaver, T. M. Patterson, Senator Stewart, Senator Allen, Jerry Simpson, Governor Llewellyn, and many others, were present at the Bryan meeting, where a very brief exchange of views was sufficient to convince all present that the proposition would not be entertained for a moment. While the meeting was in progress a message was received from the executive committee, asking that representatives of that element meet the executive officials for a conference on the compromise proposition.

This request was acceded to, and Messrs. Weaver, Patterson and Stewart were dispatched for that purpose. The joint meeting was a most spirited one, resulting in a short clash between the two factions. It was the first time the forces had been joined, and there was no mincing of words on either side. Messrs. Davis of Texas and Donnelly of Minnesota stood out stiffly for the compromise, and declared that if the Bryan people could not be satisfied with this proposition, it would be necessary to take the fight into the convention, which would, they claim, present a spectacle as humiliating to the Populist party as it would be edifying to its enemies. They asserted that it would be impossible to secure the assent of the rank and file to an unqualified endorsement of the entire Democratic ticket, and that a complete surrender would inevitably result in the disintegration and dismemberment of the party. This they declared they would never permit without a struggle to the bitter end.

On the other side, Messrs. Weaver, Patterson and Stewart spoke, and they met the assertions of their antagonists with the statement that the party could only be maintained by falling into line with another party which had adopted so many of the Populist principles, and nominated candidates so friendly to those principles. They maintained the opportunity was one which probably would never again be presented to secure the success of Populist principles. They contended that it was a patriotic duty to accept the Democratic nominees, that a wise party policy demanded this course, and that if the opportunity was lost, Bryan defeated and the country continued upon the gold standard platform, the irreconcilables would alone be to blame. Furthermore, they declared that the responsibility should be placed where it belonged, and that the country should know the facts regardless of individual sensibilities. They asserted that whatever course the Populist convention might pursue, the success of the party, who were looking more to relief from distress than to the advancement of the ambitions of any man, depended upon support of Bryan and Sewall. They defended Mr. Sewall as an acceptable candidate, and declared to attempt to displace him would lead to irreconcilable complications, prove impracticable, and place both parties in a ridiculous attitude.

Senator Stewart was especially emphatic in his denunciation of the unyielding spirit of the Middle-of-the-Road men, and left the conference in a most unamiable frame of mind. When the Bryan men left the room, they expressed the opinion that the differences existing would be carried into the convention. If this proves correct, the convention will doubtless be replete with interesting incidents.

Donnelly's Prediction.

Ignatius Donnelly of Minnesota, who has been in close conference with Chairman Taubeneck a great deal of the time since he has been here, says that although he is in favor of maintaining the Populist organization and putting a straight ticket in the field, there is every indication that they will be overriden, and Bryan be endorsed.

IGNATIUS DONNELLY.

"We have," said Mr. Donnelly, "built up our party in the face of ridicule and misrepresentation. We carried 22 electoral votes four years ago, and our party has grown steadily since. In two years our vote in Minnesota increased from 29,000 to 87,000. In the south and west our speakers educated the people on the silver question, and it was our work which was responsible for the declaration in favor of silver at Chicago. They stole our thunder, now they want to bury our party. There is no personal hostility to Bryan here, but we must maintain our organization."

Scooping In Pool Sellers.

Pawtucket, R. I., July 21.—The police made more arrests at the horse pool yesterday. Philip Brady and George A. Lied were arrested charged with keeping a poolroom and selling pools. When arraigned they pleaded not guilty, and were held in the sum of $200 each for trial. There have been three officers stationed in the poolroom every day since July 3, to prevent business.

Heavy Fine and Imprisonment.

Santa Fe, N. M., July 21.—In the United States court, Judge Laughlin sentenced James Addison Peralta-Reavis, convicted of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the Peralta land grant case, to two years' imprisonment, and to pay a fine of $5000.

HORRIBLE DEATH

One of Gage's Ice Carts Crushes Child

OF WILLIAM LUBY ON WHITING STREET.

The Wheels Passing Over Its Neck.

A frightful accident occurred in Whiting street this morning in which a child named Thomas Luby, about 14 months old was killed almost instantly.

The father of the child is William Luby, the well-known athlete. Illness compelled him to remain in the house today, and as his wife was at work, he allowed a little girl named Higgins to take the baby out for its morning ride. The girl pushed the baby carriage around for awhile and then returned to the house in Whiting street, leaving the carriage with the baby in it outside.

Just then another girl took hold of the carriage and started to turn it around.

As she was doing so one of Dan Gage's ice carts came around the corner, struck the wheels of the carriage and tipped it over.

The baby rolled into the street and before the driver could hold up the horses, the wheel of the heavy wagon passed over the child's neck.

The child lived only a few moments.

A NOVEL CHARGE

Brought Against a Woman in the Police Court.

The case of Mary Conway, charged with aiding and abetting a liquor nuisance, the complainant being the liquor inspectors, came up in police court this morning, and goes on record as the first case on that charge that has ever appeared in the Lowell police court.

The defendant, through her counsel, John J. Hogan, Esq., pleaded not guilty and the case was continued one week.

Police Court—Pickman, J.

It was decidedly uncomfortable in court this morning, especially for the offenders.

John Shea who was in only a few days ago raised a disturbance in a Central street store while drunk last night and was sent to the workhouse for seven months.

Daniel A. McDonald received ten months in jail.

Annie Ricker will spend half a year in jail.

George Shields appealed from four months.

Alfred Lefebre and George Duplex, two French boys, charged with breaking and entering, were continued until Friday.

James Dynan, who stabbed Henry McCabe on the night of July 3, was held in $400 for the Grand jury.

Hands Up! Again.

The Hogans are making elaborate preparations for their annual outing, which will take place at Mountain Rock on Wednesday, Aug. 12. The usual cawbastha feature will be abandoned this year, and a clam-bake will be substituted. The annual ball game of the Hogans and Big 12 will take place, while there will be additional features for suitable prizes under the direction of John Rourke, the well known wrestler and trainer of the Hogans.

Millinery Fire.

A fire in the window of M. J. Martin's millinery store on Palmer street, last evening, did damage to the amount of $50. The fire was caused by the lace curtains blowing against the gas jets and igniting.

Got Off Wrong End To.

An unknown woman got off a morning electric car backwards in the square yesterday and collided with the pavements. She received quite a shaking up but was otherwise uninjured.

Wires Cause Fire.

The crossed wires caused a fire on a pole at the corner of Middlesex and Thorndike streets last night. Wires and pole only were damaged.

WHY OF COURSE

You can wear bicycle shoes even if you don't ride the wheel—but DON'T ride the wheel without bicycle shoes—they are not expensive and they are very comfortable.

We have them all sizes, for women, for boys and for men.

Like the bicycles they are now down to a fine fit, light in weight, light in color and light in price. Men's elk sole lace bicycle shoes with elastic sides at $2, and boys crackproof bicycle shoes at $1.25. Ladies' bicycle oxfords, black and chocolate, the ball bearing kind, a very natty shoe at $2. Ladies' canvass leggins, Tan, Blue, and Black at 40c. High cut bicycle boots in chocolate and black kid in stock, also make them to order.

We have of course a full line of good shoes for people who still continue to walk (there a few of us walkers left) and for these people we try to make walking as comfortable as possible—in ladies' summer oxfords almost every kind from $5 down to $3, both in Tan and Black are down to $3, and most of the $3 and $2.50 kind are down to $2, now is a good time to buy those Men's $6 Seal Skin Balmorals at $5.

A COSTLY PAGEANT

New Free Street Parade of the Barnum & Bailey Show About 9 O'clock—Mardi-gras Feature

With the usual disregard of expense and with the energy that has characterized every effort of Barnum & Bailey, they have designed a new street parade for the pleasure of the people, and when it is stated that it is freely offered upon the same generous scale as the performances within the tents, one can easily imagine its magnificent splendors. All the crowned heads of the world—the reigning soverings—in coaches of state, in royal robes, on horseback surrounded with their escorts, the military uniforms of all nations, in groups and picturesque oriental style are represented in the most truthful and correct manner, together with a magnificent display of open dens of wild beasts and carved golden chariots, containing the splendid zoological collection, followed by twenty-four elephants, the allegorical chariots illustrating nursery rhymes and children's fairy stories, together with the Duryea Motor Wagon or horseless carriage, the identical vehicle winning the race in November last. As the bills say, "It is worth coming miles to see, and once seen never forgotten." The parade will take place about nine o'clock tomorrow morning.

Some of the Famous Artists

The specialties introduced comprise many of the leading artists in vaudeville shows throughout the country. Among those of national repute are the following: Ashley living statuary, Drawee a clever juggler; Ferdinanda Glinseretta, unequalled acrobats; Laroche, globe ascending spiral incline; with the Lamonts, the Sillbons, the Ledoras, the Pattens and the clowns Spader Johnson, William Herbert and Caron.

The equestrian acts and the hippodrome race naturally take the first place. William Showles is the principal bareback rider, and it is claimed for him that he is the finest in the world, and that he has never been surpassed in the past, even by riders of so great reputation as Robinson and Fish. Rose Wentworth, Josie Ashton and the Meers sisters do some of the finest riding by the women. One of the things that is found most delightful by the patrons of the circus is the exhibition of 51 horses in a single ring, and directed by a single man, an act that could never be placed upon a stage except such a vast one, especially built for equestrian acts, as Astley has in London.

The Route of Parade

The route of parade will be: Fair Grounds, Gorham, to Central, to Middlesex, to Thorndike, to Dutton, to Merrimack, to Central, to Gorham, and then back to the grounds.

The performances will be at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m.

TELEGRAPHIC SERVICE

Furnished Freely to the Lowell Newspapers—Wednesday's Convention to be Similarly Reported.

The news from the last two conventions was furnished the Lowell papers free of charge by the two local telegraphic companies, the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph company.

The bulletins were sent direct from the convention hall, and while the men were speaking their words were flashed along the wires to Lowell.

Although The Sun has the Associated Press telegraphic service it availed itself freely of the bulletin service which gave a very full skeleton report of the entire proceedings.

The new manager, Mr. Conry of the Postal Union, is a great hustler, and Mr. Carey of the Western Union is one of the very best men in the business. His many Lowell friends will regret his departure for Providence where he is to take charge of the company's business. He is very popular with the local newspaper men.

It is stated that the populist convention will be reported same as the St. Louis and Chicago.

BASE BALL.

The Urban and Suburban league has gained a reputation not confined to this city. It is known all over New England as a very promising league and a fast one withal. Having heard, no doubt, of the interest that is being taken in base ball here, Mr. Fred Mason, manager of the strong Fall River team of the New England league, was in town yesterday looking the field over with a view to having the Fall River team transferred to this city for the remainder of the season, and to start next season as the Lowells.

The Fall Rivers for the past few years have led the New England league, and the public until recently has supported them well, Fall River being known as the best ball town, excepting Boston, in the State. Lately, interest has left the game and attendances have been poor owing, perhaps, as Mr. Mason said, to the fact that the people were tired of seeing their good team beating a lot of poor ones with ease. He had heard that Lowell is giving the league great support and believed that there would be the place to bring the Fall Rivers.

A few hours in town and interviews with those who have followed the game in Lowell convinced Mr. Mason that the Fall Rivers will not make a barrel of money in this city this year, and they will not.

The league has gained a strong foothold in this city and it is receiving excellent support. The price of admission suits all and no one can criticise adversely the article of ball being played of late by the six clubs. For instance, take the Emerald-T. R. and T. game, after the first half of the first inning Saturday, no better ball could be expected from any league. The people are satisfied with just what they are getting in the base ball line.

The Press nine will be pitted against the city hall team, Thursday, Aug. 13, at the Cricket Grounds. The Press nine will be composed as follows: Sternberg, Dowling, Pickering, Brown, Cahill, Hearn, Paradis, Lamberton and Shea.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Tonight the aldermen will meet, and it will probably be the last regular session till September, as the custom is to take a rest during August.

Mayor Courtney attended the funeral of ex-Governor Russell yesterday afternoon.

North Andover Mills.

The North Andover mills, heretofore under the management of John H. Sutton, will hereafter be conducted by a company composed of Mrs. Lila Sutton Young, president; William Sutton, treasurer; the directors, Mrs. Young, William Sutton and William Perry of Salem. The mills are located in North Andover and employ about 250 hands. William Sutton will be active manager, John H. Sutton being retained in a subordinate capacity.

TO BOBBY BURNS

Let All Toast His Memory Today.

THE CENTENARY OF NATURE'S OWN POET.

It is Being Celebrated All The World Around.

One hundred years ago, after a most remarkable career, brilliant as it was meteoric, thoroughly disgusted with the world's vain show and worn out mentally, physically and morally, Bobby Burns, the pride of all the Scots, closed his eyes forever upon the beauties of his native heaths and Bonny Scotland.

Today is the centennial of that untimely taking away and the century having rolled away, even when now the prophecy of Bobbie Burns, "a hundred years hence, they'll think mair o'me than they do now," has been fulfilled and not only Scots, the world over, but every lover of nature's own poet will make some recognition of this memorial event.

The celebration of the day was undoubtedly suggested and brought about by the growing popularity of the poetical works of Burns, which, while they were ever held in highest esteem by sons of Bonnie Scotland, have of late grown very popular with lovers of poetry, while Time with its softening influence has placed the mantle of charity over the short-comings of the untutored peasant, and like our own Poe, he is only remembered by the sweet songs and his wonderful genius for which the world is at least a little better.

Wonderful was his genius. Born as he was in Ayer Jan. 25, 1759, a poor Scottish peasant, with nothing to assist him on his journey to fame save his own natural yet undeveloped gifts, he sprang as the meteor from out the clouded heavens to fame and reputation beyond even his fondest hopes. As his biographer and brother Scot, Carlyle, aptly describes him: "This month he is a ruined peasant, his wages seven pounds a year and those gone from him; next month he is amid the blaze of rank and beauty, handing down duchesses to dinner, the cynosure of all eyes." Is it any wonder that this sudden transition from the lowly confines of the poor and ignorant to the exalted environments of wealth and royalty should have proved disastrous to his untried nature?

Burns possessed neither education, opportunity nor the influence and encouragement of a more matured mind and yet he achieved fame. A thorough child of nature he was a poet in fact, and his songs so simple, so sweet and so true to nature, were indeed captivating and were refreshing when compared with the poetry of the artificial age of the century preceding his time. True, he lacked the metrical harmony and correctness of his predecessors, yet his genius as a sweet lyrist has never been excelled and gave him at once a leading place as a poet of distinction.

His songs have made him most popular with his countrymen while his genius is displayed to better advantage in his longer poems, such as the "Cotter's Saturday Night" and the "Jolly Beggars."

The centenary is observed with great demonstrations in Scotland today. At Dumfries today an immense pilgrimage was made to the tomb of the bard, the different societies in line placing wreaths upon the grave.

In this country celebrations take place in all the large cities, while in this city the Scotch residents, notably the Caledonian club will give the event due recognition.

Years may roll by and times may change, but the Scots will be Scots while the race endures, and the memory of Bobbie Burns will ever be green in the breasts of the lads and lasses from the land o' "Bonny Doon."

The local Scotch residents will observe the centenary of Bobbie Burns this evening at the residence of Mr. James J. Ramsay, 2 Runels' place. Many of them will attend the big celebration in Boston.

CUBANS GLAD

That Enrique Mola, a Daring Warrior, with 2000 Men Has Taken the Field.

Tampa, Fla., July 21.—The Cubans here are elated over important news received by private advices stating that Enrique Mola now commands 2000 well-armed men in the province of Puerto Principe, each man having 200 cartridges. Mola distinguished himself during the 10 years of the last revolution. He was pledged to take the field at the beginning of this struggle, but did not, going to Mexico instead.

STRIKE SETTLED.

The New Bedford Weavers Go to Work on a New Agreement.

New Bedford, Mass., July 21.—The striking weavers at Whitman mill appointed a committee to visit Treasurer Diman. The committee subsequently reported to the meeting that Mr. Diman promised to give an equivalent of $9 a week in wages. It was voted to return to work for two weeks to see how the agreement would work.

Can't Eat

This is the complaint of thousands at this season. They have no appetite; food does not relish. They need the toning up of the stomach and digestive organs, which a course of Hood's Sarsaparilla will give them. It also purifies and enriches the blood, cures that distress after eating and internal misery only a dyspeptic can know, creates an appetite, overcomes that tired feeling and builds up and sustains the whole physical system. It so promptly and efficiently relieves dyspeptic symptoms and cures nervous headaches, that it seems to have almost "a magic touch."

"WELCOME TO OUR CHIEF."

Firemen Have Planned a Big Reception to Chief Hosmer.

"Welcome Home to Our Chief," will blaze from scores of gas jets, over the entrance to Chief Hosmer's house.

It will be a royal welcome to the Chief, fresh from his trip across the water. Arrangements have been all completed for the welcome and Mr. Hosmer now sailing over the ocean blue little dreams of what awaits him. Acting Chief Norton, who has attended to all the details, has received valuable assistance from the fire department committee and the men in the various houses.

The Chief will arrive in New York Friday night or early Saturday morning and will be met on his arrival in Boston by Engineer Salmon and Capt. Hurley of Engine 6.

They will arrive in Lowell at 8.10 and will be received by Mayor Courtney, Chas. H. Richardson, and the committee on fire department. The Veteran firemen and as many of the regular men as can be spared will be there with the Lowell Military band.

The procession will form and proceed down Thorndike, Dutton, Merrimack, Central, Middlesex, School and Westford streets to the chief's house.

Along the line red fire will be burned, and the chief's house will be illuminated by Japanese lanterns.

The words, "Welcome Home to Our Chief," will be in a frame 15 foot high and 10 feet wide.

At the house there will be speeches and a display of fireworks.

FOR PRESIDENT.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN of Nebraska

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

ARTHUR SEWALL of Maine

This is truly a campaign of sixteen to one, the sixteen toilers to one money lender.

The republicans are beginning to sneer at Bryan's oratory as that of a boy. How is it with McKinley, the man who cannot open his mouth except when Mark Hanna gives him permission?

The manner in which McKinley avoids it indicates that he regards the financial plank as the Dead Man's Corner of the St. Louis platform.—New York Journal.

McKinley does not believe in it but he dare not say so.

The democrats of Lowell await with interest the coming of George Fred Williams to the ratification meeting Friday night. It is expected that all the sceptics on the silver question will come to hear him, and profit by his address. No voter has a right to claim allegiance to the democratic party while bolting the ticket.

The present campaign has evolved a new political character; it is the "bugwump." The bugwump is a political factor who has deserted the democratic party to aid the advocates of the gold standard, the millionaires and the money kings, who now oppose the masses in the movement for free silver. The term bugwump is analagous to mugwump, only that the former relates to scepticism on one subject, the latter on many.

It is now assumed that the leaders of the republican party will buy out the Populist convention, and prevent it from endorsing Bryan if it can be bought. Manager Hanna has opened headquarters at Chicago as well as in the east, and will be able to dispense the sinews of war from two great centres throughout the country. The millionaires and the Populists will now send their contributions to the McKinley campaign fund in order that the election may be carried by money, if in no other way. But there is in the south and west a determination to secure free silver that no amount of boodle or bribery can ever overturn. If the north and the east would only do their duty, the victory of the democratic party would be complete.

The Barnum and Bailey show will be in town tomorrow, and that vast aggregation is a forcible reminder to business men of the benefits derived from advertising. Mr. Barnum, when alive, was the greatest believer in the efficacy of advertising that America has seen for several generations. To intelligent and ingenious advertising, Barnum owed in a great measure his success. He was the author of the statement that "the public likes to be humbugged," but he never undertook to humbug the public. His motto was to give the people the worth of their money in a show, and by so doing, he got together the greatest show on earth. It will be here tomorrow, and everybody should see it; it is bigger and better than ever before.

NO STRADDLES TOLERATED.

Speaking of the Globe and Post, two democratic papers that have refused to accept the democratic platform, the Haverhill Gazett says:

"The Boston Globe and Post cannot bring themselves to the point of supporting McKinley, nor is either of these eminent exponents of pure and undefiled democracy ready to pledge allegiance to the regular democratic nominee. Like Micawber, they are waiting for something to turn up, and, to carry the illustration a little farther, they are both, like Micawber, doomed to disappointment. There is no middle ground for either of them to occupy. They have mistaken the symptoms of the disease which is eating out the vitals of the party whose principles both pretend to love. Their diagnosis is all wrong. The fight now is between the democratic masses and the plutocratic classes.

When you need printing remember The Sun.

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

MUCH LIKE POTTER'S CLAY

McKINLEY IS A TOOL IN THE HANDS OF THE TRUSTS.

Accepted Their Money as a Gift to Pay His Debts—His Record as a Public Servant Unsavory—Hobart Has Nothing but His "Bar'l" to Recommend Him.

The trusts' candidate for the presidency, William McKinley of Ohio, is, personally, one of the most adroit and cunning politicians that this age of politicians has yet produced, says the Kansas City Times. He is a demagogue of the first water, as smooth a stump speaker as ever gulled a gaping crowd with campaign catch cries and anecdotes, and his character can be estimated best, perhaps, from this one fact, that he became a bankrupt several years ago, although engaged in no occupation save politics, and when Mr. Mark Hanna and several other millionaire presidents of trusts made up a purse and paid his debts he accepted the money as a gift and has been like potter's clay in their hands ever since.

Mr. McKinley's record as a public servant is short, and still more unfortunate in its results than his management of his private affairs.

As governor of Ohio he held office for two terms and left an empty treasury when he went out of office.

As congressman from Ohio he became a candidate for the speakership, and, being badly beaten by Thomas B. Reed, congressional etiquette required that he should be appointed chairman of the ways and means committee. This committee prepared a tariff bill, with the assistance of the manufacturers and presidents of great monopolies, who wrote their own figures of protection, so called, in the bill, and in spite of the indignant remonstrance of that master spirit of the Republican party, James G. Blaine, who smashed his hat upon the committee's table and declared that the bill would not create a new market for nor raise the price of a pound of meat or a bushel of grain produced in this country, the committee succeeded in passing the McKinley bill through congress.

The results of the McKinley bill, stated in brief, from the date of its passage in 1890 to Aug. 28, 1894, when it was repealed, were as follows:

First.—Under its provisions prohibiting competition over 100 trusts were organized, covering nearly all the necessaries and comforts of life, including food, clothing, lumber, nails, agricultural implements, glass, coffins, coal, iron, steel, cotton ties, etc.

Second.—Although the McKinley act increased the average rate of protection to the manufacturers about 25 per cent, there was not a single raise of wages in a protected industry after its passage nor until its repeal.

Third.—From the passage of the McKinley act in 1890 up to November, 1892, there were over 1,200 shut downs, lockouts and strikes in the industries "protected" by its tariff rates. Among these was the "culminating atrocity of McKinleyism," the Homestead strike, in which thousands of American wage earners were turned out to starve and, when they resisted, shot down by Pinkerton's constabulary.

Fourth.—The McKinley act caused a steady falling off in the revenues of the government, from over $100,000,000 of surplus left by the Cleveland administration in 1889 to a deficit in the last fiscal year of its operation, from June 30, 1893, to June 30, 1894, amounting to $72,000,000.

Fifth.—The disinterested and best posted political economists of the country, Republican as well as Democratic, declared that the McKinley act divided the honors with the Sherman purchasing act of causing the terrific panic of 1893, from the effects of which the country is even now slowly recovering.

Sixth.—Under the operation of the McKinley act the prices of clothing and nearly all the necessities of life were raised so high as to be in many cases entirely out of the reach of a workingman and his family, and such a thing as a wholesome, healthful woolen suit of clothes or woolen dress became a rarity among persons of ordinary means.

Mr. McKinley's running mate, the Republican bosses' candidate for the vice presidency, is Mr. G. A. Hobart, ostensibly from New Jersey, but in reality a New York clubman and idler. His political biography is, like most Republican virtues, a negative quantity, but he has a "bar'l," and he is the faithful tool and servant of innumerable other "bar'ls" in and around New York. His money is expected to pull the ticket through the tight places.

All in all, the Republican party has from its standpoint done its work well, through its head boss, Hanna, and the ticket for 1896 may be fairly classed as a typical Republican ticket.

But if there is a tithe of the patriotism of our forefathers left in the land the trusts' ticket will be buried out of sight in November, as The Times earnestly hopes and believes it will.

Don't Know Where to Plant It.

McKinley evidently regards the Republican nomination this year as a dog does an extra bone, only he doesn't know in what part of the garden to bury it.—Atlanta Constitution.

Sorry For It.

"Who made McKinley?" shouted the Reed men. And then they answered, "Reed made him!" But how sorry Reed is now that he did that job.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Poor Subject For Enthusiasm.

The convention orators showed to little advantage. It is difficult to grow eloquent over as poor a subject as McKinley.—Exchange.

He'll Probably Plug.

If Governor Morton now plugs his bar'l for the rest of the year, who shall blame him?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

ONE AMONG MANY.

The Returned Lover, the Summer Girl and the Strange, Sad Sequel.

Scene—Piazza of a summer hotel. Seated in a large rocking chair is a regulation summer girl. Enter, to her, a lawn tennis youth.

The Youth (joyfully)—Why, this is a most unexpected pleasure. I hardly hoped to find you here.

The Girl (with some embarrassment)—We were among the first arrivals. But—

The Youth (gallantly)—Had I known that I should have left town earlier.

The Girl (with a half smile)—You are very good. But, pardon me for saying so, you have somewhat the advantage of me.

The Youth (in surprise)—The advantage of you! Have you forgotten the lawn tennis games of last year?

The Girl—No, indeed. I am too fond of the game.

The Youth—Don't you remember the buckboard drives on the old shingle road?

The Girl—Perfectly. I hope to go on many more this summer.

The Youth (seating himself beside her)—Surely your memory is not lost to the little canoeing parties, unchaperoned, out to the island, where all resolved themselves into pairs as fancy and inclination dictated?

The Girl (enthusiastically)—Oh, no. I shall never forget those.

The Youth (in a low voice)—Or the evening strolls on the board walk, with an occasional seat in some sheltered nook, safe from the moonlight and—and the others?

The Girl (a soft light in her eyes)—How could I forget such things?

The Youth (bending closer)—Do you not recall one night—it was the night of a hotel hop, I think—when, tired of dancing, you wandered away toward the surf with—with—well, we will say with the man to whom you had given nearly every waltz?

The Girl (with flushed cheeks and faint voice)—Yes, I think I do.

The Youth —And how he whispered in your ear that he loved you and would always love you?

The Girl (whose face is now scarlet)—Yes, yes, but—

The Youth—Although you would not whisper back that you loved him in return, still you told him that he might love you if he wished; that you wanted him to love you; that you would think of him all through the dreary winter in the city?

The Girl (who has now quite recovered her composure)—And, admitting all this to be true?

The Youth (puzzled)—I do not understand you. You say you remember everything, and yet—

The Girl—I have not forgotten anything. I recall it all—in fact, other things that you have not mentioned. But—

The Youth (blankly)—But—

The Girl (looking him calmly in the eyes)—I don't seem to be able to place you.—New York Sunday World.

In the Sanctum.

"Gallagher!"

The office boy entered and stood before the great editor awaiting his commands.

"Go down to the saloon in the basement and tell the foreign correspondents to hurry with their copy. I want to go home early tonight."

The usual number of battles were described in the next morning's paper.—Truth.

SUNBEAMS.

He Was Engaged.

"We might hire a new clerk," said the druggist, "if he were a good one. Are you a graduate in pharmacy?"

"No," said the man who wanted a job, "I ain't a graduate in pharmacy, and I don't intend to be. I ain't looking for a cheap job. But I can draw soda water with both hands at once and know how to make 144 different sirups."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The night winds sighed.

She shivered slightly. "I think," she murmured, "that I ought to have something around me."

A strange, sweet thrill shot through the arm of the manly youth at her side.

Utterly Reckless.

Prudent Mamma—Rosamond, you ought not to permit that young Spoonamore to be so attentive to you. What do you know of him? He may be a wholly unworthy young man.

Miss Rosamond—I don't care if he committed the crime of 1873. He always buys ice cream soda.—Chicago Record.

Not Up to the Requirements.

"I'm sorry, miss," said the leading director of the school in Milkweed township to the young woman who had applied for the position of teacher, "but your orthography ain't up to grade. You don't even seem to know how to spell chimbly."—Chicago Tribune.

Working Well.

"By the way, Jackson, how are you getting along with your patent icemaking machine?"

Jackson—Great. We formed a stock company, and have already frozen out the president and ten stockholders.—Town Topics.

The Wondrous Laws of Nature.

"The great curse of modern social life is the overcrowding of the cities," said the parrot philosopher.

"Too true," admitted the other man; "but I think the trolley cars and ambulances will eradicate the evil in time."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Envy.

The clover is thick where the honey bee roves,
With his knapsack and weapon so keen,
And blossoming trees in the deep shadowed groves
Invite him to feast all serene.
Wherever he utters his troubadour song
The portals wide open are found.
No matter how many invaders may throng,
There is always enough to go round.

But alack for our busy humanity's hive,
Whence songless the toiler must go
Where the thorns, not the roses, assist us to thrive,
Where the swift so soon distance the slow!
Life's pleasures are sweet when fate's locks are released,
But by many the key is ne'er found,
And a sadness remains at the fireside and feast
That there isn't enough to go round.

Who doesn't know that horrid nightmare when the feet refuse to move, and you drag yourself along by main force, with some sort of terror chasing after you? It is something the same way with the waking nightmare of "biliousness." It seems to paralyze your energies, weigh you down like lead; and drag you back with an unshakeable clutch. You can't get away from the misery that pursues you. You feel dull and languid and low-spirited; your appetite is poor, your stomach is out of order, your sleep is disturbed, you are irritable and "cranky." There's no real lively enjoyment of life. What you need is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to tone up your liver and help it in working the impurities out of your blood. The liver has a large share of this purifying work to do and sometimes it gets over-loaded so the impurities back up on to the other organs of the body: the kidneys or skin or lungs, and take root, then it's a harder matter to clear them out. Wherever they settle they are all blood diseases just the same, and the "Discovery," will cure any blood disease that was ever named, scrofula, eczema, catarrh, ulcers, swellings, severe coughs and even consumption. But the cure is a harder job when the trouble has gone as far as that. The right way is to go at these impurities before they take root, while they are still floating in the blood and over-loading the liver. Drive them out early. You can do it surely every time, with the "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is the greatest family doctor book ever published.

It explains human physiology and the laws of life and health in plain yet scientific language. It has had a tremendous sale: 680,000 copies at $1.50 each bound in cloth. The present free edition is the same in all respects except that it is bound in strong manila paper covers. A copy will be absolutely given away to anyone who sends 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

ONE WEEK, COMMENCING MONDAY, JULY 20.

The Romantic Music of the Alps

THE ALPINE MOUNTAIN CHOIR

Tyrolean Singers, German Warblers, National Dancers, Instrumentalists,

In their attractive national costumes, in gay colored dresses and blouses, they are distinctly a national feature of Austria and of Switzerland. They are instrumentalists as well as singers. They are natural musicians not educated in conservatories, but banded together they astonish one with their wonderful harmony. They have magnificent voices and accompany themselves on the zither and guitar, and sing ballads with charming simplicity.

MR. BUCHANAN'S LETTER

DENOUNCES THE REVIVAL OF AN OLD PLUTOCRATIC GAME.

An Effort to Bamboozle the "Voting Cattle"—Another Corporation Court—The Milwaukee Boycott—Recent Signs of American Patriotism.

[Special Correspondence.]

Political tricksters are again at the game of attempting to deceive and intimidate the workingmen. This is the usual game of each presidential and congressional election. This time the case of the plutes and the gamblers is desperate, and they and their minions are ready to employ extreme measures. The issues of the pending campaign are those which, if correctly understood, array the people upon one side and the plutocracy upon the other. No informed man fails to thoroughly understand that the leading issue at this time is the money question, primarily the struggle for the restoration of silver to the place it held for 80 years under our constitution. The common people have become educated during the past four years upon this question, and the money power realizes that if the coming election is decided squarely upon that issue its power to grind the sweat and bones of the country's producers into riches for the benefit of the few will be broken, perhaps forever.

Therefore the effort is being made to once more get up a sham fight over the tariff. No one believes that it will be possible to push aside as the main issue the question which the people have put to the front; for parties do not make issues, but issues make parties. But it has been shown that some sections of the country are always ready for fight on a question which affects, or which they think affects, them specially. Pennsylvania has always been fruitful ground in which to sow the seeds of tariff. The agents of plutocracy, realizing these facts, have begun their campaign in that state. A dastardly beginning it is too. The tin plate manufacturers through their organization have decided to reduce wages within the next few weeks. The reduction agreed upon at the recent meeting of the association at Pittsburg will average about 18 per cent. The claim will be that the existing tariff on the plate makes such a wage reduction necessary.

The peculiar efficacy of this demand of the bosses as a campaign document will suggest itself to all. But to clearly show how the Manufacturers' association looked at it the following extract from the minutes of the meeting which decided upon the reduction is reproduced from a Pittsburg paper:

Several members reported the managers of the coming Republican campaign as acquiescing in the idea that a reduction at this time would have a favorable effect on the election, especially when imposed on tin plate. There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

The "favorable effect" desired by the tin plate monopolists and the political managers referred to is to compass the election of a president and congress that will continue the reign of the Rothschilds, Morgans, Belmonts and other bloated Shylocks who are sapping the very life blood of this people. The scheme is to so far as possible obscure the real issue in the campaign by starving the workingmen into advocacy of another issue which is dishonestly raised.

I am not taking sides on the tariff question no more than I am on the controversy as to the authorship of Shakespeare's plays, and I hope I will not be accused of assailing any man's politics; but if there is any workingman in this country so ignorant as to believe that denunciation of a hellish scheme of the goldbugs is disloyalty to the cause of labor then I will have to submit to being written down in his books as a traitor. If the hellish designs of the emissaries of plutocracy, abetted by the tin plate bosses, are carried out, there will, of course, to a strike, as the employees cannot consent to the reduction proposed. Probably the unmasking of the scheme will put a stopper upon further proceedings along that line; but be that as it may, the workingmen of this country should be convinced by this last move of the plutocracy that their interests lie in a determined stand at the polls in November against the infernal scoundrels who have so clearly shown their desire to sell them out to the bondholding classes of this country and Europe.

I do not wish to be understood as claiming that the silver question is of supreme importance to the workers of the country. On the contrary I take the position that there are other questions of public policy that far surpass it in importance, and I believe it to be the duty of all the friends of labor to work with what ability they possess to bring those questions up for settlement and to settle them right. But we must take things as they are, not as we would like them to be, and the fight is on, though not of our making, between the contractionists and those whose interests lie in the direction of a more liberal policy, and every good citizen must choose his side. In fighting against the Shylocks I can find a place from which to strike at every stronghold of plutocracy, and I hope, dear reader, you will be able to do likewise. Whether you can or not rests with yourself; but that you can give aid to so pronounced a foe of the people as the bondholding, bloodsucking cormorants whose cruelty and deviltry are only hinted at in the infamous plot perfected at Pittsburg I cannot believe.

That the courts are so completely under the control of monopoly as to prevent a poor man from securing his rights at law has again been shown. A judge at Vincennes, Ind., has contributed the evidence this time. The case was that of a man named Drummond versus the Evansville and Terre Haute Railway company. Drummond charged that the company discharged him because of his connection with the A. R. U. strike in July, 1894, and by blacklisting him prevented him from obtaining employment on any other railway. The jury returned a verdict for Drummond and awarded him $3,500. The court set the verdict aside and ordered a new trial. This was a case in which the right of trial by jury was admitted and allowed, but in which the judge exercised as full powers as would have been possible to him had there been no jury. He decided that the blacklisting law of Indiana did not prohibit the railway company from "exposing" the fact that Drummond was no longer in its employ or from stating why he was not. This all wise judge also decided that there was no evidence to support the verdict. The 12 jurymen decided that there was such evidence, and they were intrusted with and sworn to be governed by the evidence. It is time to stop the farce of jury trials before corporation judges.

The Milwaukee street railway boycott was the grandest affair of the kind ever carried out by the organized laborers of this country. It was one of the "most magnificent things done under the American sky," says Henry D. Lloyd, the chivalrous champion of labor's rights. The boycott was supported by the citizens of Milwaukee because they fully realized the tyranny of the railway company toward its employees, and so long as organized labor in the city stood united in the battle the people refused to ride in the boycotted cars. But there came a time when division crept in and the organizations outside of those of the railway men lifted the boycott, and the grandest battle of years had to be abandoned. The division occurred over the action of the railway men in breaking their agreement to support the popular demand for municipal ownership of street railways. They threw their support to a new and rival corporation which was trying to secure franchise and rights of way. This is the way I get the story, and if it is true, here is another of those awful discouragements which are continually springing up in front of those who are striving to bring about better conditions for labor.

A recent cable from St. Petersburg contains information which convinces one that the police of that city have adopted measures in dealing with working people that are as yet apparently unknown to the police of New York, Chicago and some other American cities famous for their Russian methods. The strike of factory operatives, involving 40,000 employees, was for increased pay and shorter hours. Many employers were willing to concede the demands, but were forbidden so to do by the police. The operatives announced their intention of making a personal appeal to the czar, but the police took precautions to prevent them from carrying out the idea. Great are the police. We have long known that some of those in this country were greater than the czar, and now their brother clubbers of St. Petersburg have climbed to their side. Of course the police of St. Petersburg say the strike was incited by nihilists. In this country it is the socialist, anarchist and walking delegate who inform the workers that they are working long hours for low pay.

Two newspaper clippings which reached my desk simultaneously this morning strike me as constituting a coincidence worthy of noticing in this column. One of them was from the Cleveland Leader and was as follows:

At a recent meeting of the Cleveland Central Labor union Isaac Cowen gave notice that he had begun the organization of "minute men" throughout the city. He said that the objects of the organization would be many. The temporary object, he said, would be to drill for the Labor day parade, while the permanent object would be to communicate information speedily to all the union men of the city. After the meeting he told a reporter that the men would be so thoroughly drilled that in the event of necessity they could aid in defending the city against a foreign or domestic foe of whatsoever kind. When asked whether one of the objects of the organization was to fight the authorities, he responded in the negative. "But if the money classes want to turn guns on us after we are organized they might find that our military training might be of some service to us," he remarked.

The other was from the New York Press. It was a reporter's account of a visit to the New York sweatshops, where a large proportion of the United States flags that are sold throughout the country are made. The wages, when work is steady in these awful dens, average less than $5 a week, and the women who stitch their very lives and souls into "Old Glory" work 13 and 14 hours a day. The half starved offspring of these slaves of the treadmill of Mammon are not likely to imbibe a great deal of patriotism from their wretched mothers. "Minute men" and sweatshop flags make a queer combination in a "land of the free and home of the brave." JOS. R. BUCHANAN.

New York.

Arbitration and Injunctions.

A committee appointed by the convention of state railroad commissioners to consider the matter of strikes has given its approval to a measure which provides for arbitration between railroads and their employees in contests involving the suspension of traffic or other inconveniences to the public.

The committee regards the use of the army and legal injunctions in labor wars with disfavor. They produce bad feeling, it says, and "nothing has gone further to impair faith in the federal courts than the manner in which, at certain times, their power has been exercised" against strikers.

New York Tailors.

The membership of the Brotherhood of Tailors in New York is about 9,000, about 250 of whom are women and girls.

In Brooklyn the membership is about 4,000, of whom 1,000 are women and girls, and the membership in Brownsville, a suburb of Brooklyn, is about 1,500.

The aim of the United Garment Workers, with which the Brotherhood of Tailors is affiliated, is to abolish the contract system altogether. The contractors will then become either operators or superintendents of clothing factories.

Alabama Miners' Scale.

A Birmingham (Ala.) correspondent says: The new wage scale of the 10,000 coal miners in this district went into effect July 1 to continue for two years. It grants the miner an advance of 7 per cent in wages; 40 cents per ton instead of 37½ cents is made the minimum price to be paid when pig iron is worth $8.50 or less per ton; an advance of 3½ cents per ton for coal mining is to follow every advance of 50 cents in the price of iron. This advance prevented a strike.

FROM OUR 5 O'CLOCK EDITION Of Yesterday.

LIGHT, NOT HEAT, WANTED

ON THE CHIEF ISSUE OF THIS CAMPAIGN.

What the Haverhill Gazette Says—Walcott's Charge Contradicted.

The Haverhill Gazette, a republican paper, makes some very plain statements on politics and other things.

Here is the manner in which it takes Gov. Wolcott to task for his designation of democrats as anarchists:

Gov. Wolcott is reported to have said in his Music hall speech: "It is a contest . . . . . between anarchy and the constitution of the United States, between the pirate's flag and the stars and stripes."

Roger Wolcott knows better, a great deal better than to indulge in such foolish talk. Even the wildest of the Chicago enthusiasts said nothing more false and uncalled for. This battle now on is not between saints on one side and sinners on the other, nor is it in any sense a sectional quarrel. It is not a question of anarchy, but, as the Springfield Republican truthfully declares, one of 16 to 1. Those who represent vested interests are pursuing a wrong and dangerous policy in shaking the red flag of anarchy in the faces of all who believe in free silver. To quote the Republican again: "The horrors of the French revolution were due quite as much to the character of the opposition the popular movement received from the aristocracy of France and Europe as to the original spirit, motives and aims of the bourgeois and the sans culotte."

Light, not heat, is what we all want on this financial question. There are no pirates to be fought, but there are millions of American citizens, east, west, north and south, who want and mean to obtain the facts.

Marden and Williams.

In reference to Mr. Marden's personal attack upon Hon. George Fred Williams the Gazette says:

Hon. George A. Marden of the Lowell Courier is shouting in a falsetto voice, and with every evidence of hatred, that the Hon. George Fred Williams is "a poor, silly, sappy, bumptious, asinine chap," and that he has rolled in the dirt for nothing.

Mr. Marden is tolerably well known in Massachusetts on account of his consuming desire for government pap. So also is Mr. George Fred Williams. Both men are well known to the Gazette which has no hesitation in pronouncing the latter in every way the superior of the former. Williams is a manly man, Marden a common scold. Williams is not a chronic office holder, Marden is unhappy when he is not sucking a teat. Hah for George Fred! Abuse, Georgie Marden!

THEATRICAL NEWS.

Glen Forest Spectacle.

The big fireworks spectacle is to be shown at Glen Forest nightly this week at 8.30.

Pain's Japan and China continues all this week at Glen Forest, where Lowell people can view it with comfort. The commencement hour is set at 8.20 p. m., and special cars are in waiting to carry intended visitors to and from enclosure at Glen Forest with promptness. Pain's Military band gave an excellent concert in the business street this noon to the delight of thousands.

At the enclosure a concert precedes each performance. Tonight new features will be introduced in fireworks and the specialty portion of the entertainment. The three Ronos, Grotesque dancers, and high kickers, are prominent among the new comers.

The price of admission has been set at 25c., while 25c. extra is charged for choice reserved seats.

INJURED AT MACHINE SHOP.

An Employe Has Two Bones Broken by a Falling Piece of Iron.

Early this morning, Sotaris Tayaris, an employe of the Lowell Machine shop had the two bones in his right leg broken by a piece of iron falling on it. He was removed in the ambulance to the Lowell hospital. He resides on Suffolk street.

MORE NEW SEWERS.

Committee Voted This Morning to Start More Sewer Work.

The sewer committee met this morning and held a hearing on the petition of E. A. Smith for a sewer on Burtt street. Afterwards, the petition was granted.

It was voted to commence sewer work in Boynton, Lundberg, Woodward avenue and Lincoln streets.

Two Assaulted.

It is stated that Thomas Harrap and his son, James, were assaulted and pretty roughly handled by some men out at No. Chelmsford late Saturday night.

Horse Shot.

A valuable horse belonging to a man by the name of Bennett, residing in Centralville, fell down on Market street and broke a leg about noon today. Agent Drury shot the animal.

With the Track Athletes.

The famous B. A. A. team, Burke, Curtis, Hope, Bennett and Hubbard is entered in the team race for next Saturday. They will be pitted against the East Boston team that defeated them at the recent meet at Glen Forest.

At Oak Island, next Thursday, Wefers will try to break the 75 and 135 yards record. He says he will not fail to break the 300 yards record on the Fair Grounds on Saturday. His confidence leads many to suspect that he has already broken the record in private trials. With Wefers bent on making a record, one may expect to see some flying.

The entries for the Burkes' meet closed last night. Up to yesterday noon there were 90 entries, and this number was brought up to 128 when the afternoon mail was received. Then, of course there are other entries sent direct to the handicapper.

The handicaps will be announced Wednesday and the figuring on the winners will commence.

Wefers will run in the 100, 220, 300 and 440 yards races.

Al. Remington, the famous N. Y. A. C. man, sent word yesterday that he will be on hand Saturday.

The final arrangements will be announced in a few days.

BOXING GOSSIP.

George V. Tuohey, sporting editor of the Boston Post, got out a very bright sporting paper in Sunday's edition, spreading himself interestingly in all kinds of legitimate sport. Concerning the Flaherty-Gans match he writes as follows:

"The 20-round contest between Martin Flaherty and Joe Gans, which is to be decided at Baltimore on July 27, should prove interesting. Flaherty, since his draw with Dixon, has been sought by many clubs, but resolved to rest for a while. The challenge of Gans was so pointed, however, that the Lowellite had nothing to do but accept, and though he has made a great weight concession, his friends are sanguine as to the outcome of the bout. 'Gans resembles Dixon in point of physique,' said a well-known sport follower, 'and I understand that he has copied Dixon's style pretty thoroughly, so that in meeting Gans, Flaherty will probably work on the same lines he did when he boxed the champion. We have no way of comparing Gans and Flaherty up here except by the showing of both men against Jimmy Kennard, the St. Paul Kid. You will recall to mind that Flaherty stopped Kennard in less than one round, while it took Gans four or five to show superiority over the westerner. The claim is made that Gans was sick at the time. Well, Flaherty was a long way from being in good condition when he met Kennard. No matter who the winner is, I feel that the bout will be very Tobasco from the call of time until a winner is seen. The distance is in favor of Flaherty, for he grows better as he goes along.'"

FREE SILVER LEAGUE.

Secures Quarters and Appoints Necessary Committees to do Work.

The Free Silver league accomplished more business at its meeting last night, than at any of the two previous meetings held.

The league was hampered in its work and attendance by the failure of some one to notify the janitor of Huntington hall that a meeting be held, and also by the weather.

Bernard D. O'Connell, Esq., however, helped them out of the predicament by offering the use of his office, and the meeting was held there.

It was stated that quarters for the league had been obtained in the Bon Marche building, and a flag will be raised.

Messrs. Edward Rogers, B. D. O'Connell, Frank J. Simonds, Edward Cogger, and James J. Dacey, and the chairman was appointed a press committee and they were instructed to wait on the publisher of The Sun and request him to publish a morning edition of the paper. Several of the members praised The Sun for its position and for its fair treatment and honest reports of the meetings.

Messrs. John F. Murphy, Edward Cogger and Henry J. Johnson were appointed a finance committee, and Messrs. O'Connell, Dacey and Cogger a committee on rules.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. O'Connell for the use of his office, and the league adjourned to meet in the citizens' committee room at 8 o'clock next Thursday evening.

LAST FOND LOOK

On the Face of Ex-Gov. Russell

TAKEN BY OVER 30,000 OF HIS ADMIRERS.

Great Outpouring of Sorrow and Sympathy.

Cambridge, Mass., July 21.—It was not alone from Cambridge that people came to take a last look at the face of William E. Russell, yesterday. Every car from Boston brought its contribution to the great gathering that filled the sidewalks of Massachusetts avenue, near city hall, and other people came on foot and in carriages from all around. As the people reached the neighborhood of the building, before entering, they were formed in two double lines. They were allowed to move up the steps to the entrance first from one line, then from the other, changing to a column of four abreast as they advanced. The police controlled the crowd until the walk was reached, leading to the portal; then the militiamen preserved order. Inside the portal of the building, which was draped with festoons of black, relieved by the national colors, the members of the First corps of cadets were stationed. They proved efficient managers, for a slight motion of the hand, from time to time, or a word of direction, served to keep the throng moving quietly and in perfect order, yet rapidly.

At first the people passed the bier in double files, but after the first rush was over, they were allowed to pass in single file, one line on either side of the canopy. Thence each line passed through the corridors to rear doors, one on either side. The number of people who viewed the body can be estimated from the statement that for the first few minutes they passed the bier at the rate of nearly 100 a minute, on each side, and this rate showed only a slight diminution during the later hours. Probably 30,000 people passed the body in the three hours during which it lay in state.

The body was removed at 3 o'clock from city hall to the Shepard Memorial church, where an hour later the last services were tenderly administered. The services were very impressive in their nature. Long before the hour appointed the beautiful edifice was crowded with the most prominent citizens of the city, state and country. Admission to the church was strictly by ticket, and so extensive was the demand for the coveted card that the supply gave out completely early in the day. Among the first to arrive at the church was President Cleveland and Lieutenant Governor Wolcott, attended by Adjudant General Dalton. Here they were met by Chief Justice Fuller of the supreme court of the United States, who had come from Sorrento, Me. All four of the distinguished personages were escorted to the front pew. The rest of the church rapidly filled, and shortly before 4 o'clock the immediate family were escorted up the aisle to the pew opposite the president. The ushers were classmates of Governor Russell.

The singing at the church was by an augmented choir, taken from the boys' choirs of the St. Paul's church of Boston, the Appleton chapel and Christ church of Cambridge, assisted by the Albion male quartet of Boston. W. A. Locke was organist and director. Before the body was taken to the church selections were given by the quartet from Cherubini's requiem mass and from Bach's "Passion" music.

As the body was carried into the church, "I Heard a Sound of Voices" was sung by the choir. This was followed by a reading of scripture by Rev. Alexander McKenzie, after which the chorus sang "Forever with the Lord." The prayer by Dr. McKenzie was followed by a solo, "I Heard a Voice from Heaven."

Dr. McKenzie then delivered the eulogy on Governor Russell, a tribute that was remarkable for its beauty of language, depth of feeling and pathos. He said among other things: "We are not here for eulogy. The smitten nerves, the broken hearts, are not yet still enough for us to tell in formal sentences the meaning of this life, and to gather the teachings which are its bequests. This service is for sympathy and prayer. In our bewilderment the first thought which touches our grief is of the brevity of the years which are told.

"Gone 'ere his prime,' we say. Length of days would have indeed been length of influence and the extension of fame. Yet days cannot measure life, nor set bounds to its course. 'What thou livest, live well.' The life which is the same as his has flowed from its mysterious urn, a sacred stream not to disappear, but under other names to make the earth green and fruitful where it runs.

"Along the path he trod, others of less daring, will find their way. This is to live. Life is in three dimensions. What his lacked in one, being here, was made up in two. It was a cube, not a line or a plane. He has had length of years enough to disclose the secret of nobility and give it ample illustration."

As the body was borne from the church by the pallbearers, the entire congregation rose to their feet while the choir sang, "For all the saints who from their labors rest."

Only the immediate family, with a few intimate friends, followed the remains to the newly-made grave in Mt. Auburn cemetery. The lot itself is a new one, and was purchased only Saturday by the Russell family. The body of the father of Governor Russell, Hon. Charles Theodore Russell, was removed from the tomb yesterday, and today father and son repose side by side beneath the outstretched branches of a sturdy oak tree.

The services at the grave were short, Dr. McKenzie reading only a portion of the regular service, and closing the impressive exercises of the day by a brief prayer.

THE DWINDLING RESERVE.

Treasury Officials Think Present Raid Will Not Last Much Longer.

Washington, July 21.—The gold reserve went below the $90,000,000 mark today for the first time in many months, and at the close of business the actual figure was $89,761,336, a reduction of $3,706,300 for the day. Of the withdrawals, $3,633,000 was for export. Treasury officials look upon this heavy golden drain as entirely abnormal, and are confident that it will not continue, at least so heavily. They say there is nothing in trade conditions to warrant the experts, adding, that although exchange is almost a point above the shipping point in normal times, the conditions are such in their judgment as to make it uncertain whether it can be profitable at present. In the absence of Secretary Carlisle no one can speak authoritatively respecting the probability of another issue of bonds to replenish the reserve in the near future, but the general trend of opinion was that such a thing was not to be expected.

Officials are satisfied with the manner in which they have gotten so far through the month of July. This is always a trying month, the beginning of the fiscal year letting loose a lot of appropriations for miscellaneous objects, as well as for rivers and harbors and pensions. The total expenditures for the month have reached $31,118,000, which leaves a deficit of $12,091,294, but this is no more than was expected, while encouragement is found in the fact that the receipts have averaged well up to $1,000,000 per diem, and that much of this increase is composed of international revenue receipts, an indication that whisky in bond has at last been drawn upon.

Cilley Didn't Show Up.

Boston, July 21.—The adjournment of the hearing on the Stetson will in the probate court yesterday did not lack interest. At the first hearing, Dr. C. S. Cilley, one of the witnesses to the will, was absent, in spite of the fact that a personal summons had been served upon him by a constable. By order of the court, Dr. Cilley was defaulted, but counsel stated that there was no doubt that he would be present at the next hearing day. Dr. Noyes, another witness to the will, was also absent Wednesday, but appeared in court yesterday. Dr. Cilley was still among the missing, and some interesting developments are anticipated at the next hearing, provided he does not show up. Dr. Cilley was John Stetson's medical adviser, and it was he who suggested that Dr. Noyes and his own coachman should be the other witnesses of the millionaire's will, besides himself. It is anticipated that Dr. Cilley can throw considerable light on the condition of Mr. Stetson before he died.

Thinning Out the Docket.

London, July 21. — In the house of commons yesterday, A. J. Balfour moved suspension of the midnight rule for the remainder of the session, and also that government bills may be taken up at any hour, though opposed. Mr. Balfour said that private bills, including the benefice bill, must be sacrificed, owing to the nearness of the day for adjournment, Aug. 14. He also announced the dropping of a half dozen minor measures. Mr. Balfour said that he feared that there would not be time to pass the deceased wife's sister bill, but he proposed to continue efforts for the passage of the Irish land bill.

Declared a Draw.

New York, July 21.—The six-round go between "Kid" Lavigne and Charlie McKeever attracted 3000 people to the Madison Square Garden last night. The fighting was of a very mild order at first, but was one of the most scientific events ever seen here during the latter half. The referee, according to a previous arrangement, both men being on their feet, declared the bout a draw. It is believed that the result will lead to the matching of the two men.

Talked Over Old Times.

Hingham, Mass., July 21.—The New England Association of Mexican War Veterans held a pleasant reunion for the 48th time at Nantasket Beach, yesterday. General Chamberlain of Barre Plains, Vt., and General Nelson Vialle of Cranston, R. I., were re-elected commander and lieutenant commander, respectively, together with the old board of officers. Apart from a brief business session, the day was given up to reminiscences and dining.

Literary War Weapons.

Washington, July 21.—As one result of the conference between Chairman Babcock of the congressional committee and Mark Hanna and Major McKinley, last week, the scope of the work of the congressional committee is to be greatly widened during the coming campaign. The Republican congressional committee from this time on will perform more work in different fields than has ever devolved upon any previous congressional committee. In the last campaign the congressional committee confined its labors to about 100 congressional districts, but in this campaign it will widen its field of operations to take in every place in the United States where there is a chance for a contest. The number of campaign documents that will be sent out between now and next November by the congressional committee will reach in the millions. From one state alone an order has been received for 700,000 documents, and there are a number of orders for 400,000 and 500,000. The majority of these documents will bear upon the financial question. The congressional committee will get out the campaign book this year, and is now at work on it.

The Democratic congressional committee has been a little slower in beginning work than the Republican committee, but will push matters from this time on, Chairman Faulkner reaching the city today and taking hold of the work in earnest.

Railroads Suffer.

Centralia, Ills., July 21.—The railroads running into Centralia have suspended running trains on account of washouts, the result of heavy rains. A St. Louis passenger train struck a washout east of here, and a passenger coach was turned over. A tramp riding on the platform was killed. The Illinois Central had a washout south of here, and no trains have left for the south.

THE VENEZUELAN SIDE.

As Summed Up by Those Working In Behalf of the Republic.

Washington, July 21.—The first part of a brief, prepared by James J. Storrow, of counsel for Venezuela, in conjunction with Mr. Scruggs, the legal adviser of that government, has just been completed and submitted for consideration of the Venezuelan boundary commission. The brief is framed as an answer to the general summary of the British case, as set out in the British Blue Book devoted to the Venezuelan dispute, and, like that, is an argument based upon the evidence collected by the agents of the government interested. The leading points of the document are the attack upon the integrity of the Schomburgk line, as it now appears upon the British maps; the assertion of the priority of settlement of the disputed territory by the Spaniards; the denial of the jurisdiction of the Dutch beyond the reach of the guns of their ships at any time, and the claim that the territory, which it desired to throw into arbitration, does not even today contain any settlements, so that Lord Salisbury's solicitude for the welfare of the British settlers is ill-founded.

The International Chess Tourney.

Nuremberg, July 21.—Following are the results of the first round of the international chess masters' tournament, played in this city yesterday: Schiffers beat Albin in a Zukertort opening after 32 moves. Lasker beat Porges in a Ruy Lopez after 37 moves. Janovsky beat Marco in a Ruy Lopez after 30 moves. Steinitz beat Schallopp in a queen's gamit declined after 46 moves. Tschigorin beat Winawer in a Vienna game after 36 moves. Charousek beat Showalter in a king's gamit declined after 54 moves. Walbrodt and Schlechts drew a Scotch game after 31 moves. Tarrach Maroozy drew a queen's gamit declined after after 62 moves. Blackburn and Teichmann drew a two-knights' defense after 37 moves. Pillsbury had a bye.

Death of Bishop Coxe.

Rochester, July 21. — Arthur Cleveland Coxe, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of western New York, died suddenly of nervous prostration yesterday, at the Clifton Springs sanitarium, where he had been spending a few days. He was about to leave for his residence in Buffalo, and just before taking the train was stricken with a fainting spell, from which he did not revive. Arthur Cleveland Coxe was born in Mendham, N. J., in 1818. He graduated at the University of the City of New York in 1838, and at the general theological seminary of the Episcopal church in 1841. He was ordained deacon on June 27, 1841, and priest on Sept. 25, 1842.

Civilization's Progress.

Washington, July 21.—The announcement of the decision of the Chinese empire to establish a government postal service is followed by an official communication from the foreign office of China, by which the empire announces its intention in organizing a postal service to admit without any additional charge, on and after July 1, 1897, all articles prepaid at the union rates destined for a certain number of places in China, subsequently to make a formal application for the admission of China to the universal postal union.

COMMUNICATION.

How the Money Kings Control Labor and Cause Panics.

Editor Sun:—

Knowing that you, through the medium of your valuable paper are always ready to give information and stand up for the masses oppressed and downtrodden, I ask you if you will kindly find a corner in the Sun for the following circulars.

The first is the Hazzard circular, an original copy of which is held at present by Col. Jesse Harper of Danville, Illinois and others and was circulated among Americans by an English banker named Charles Hazzard in the summer of 1862 and is as follows:

"Slavery is likely to be abolished by the war power and chattel slavery destroyed. This I and my European friends are in favor of, for slavery is but the owning of labor and carries with it the care for the laborer while the European plan, led on by England, is capital control of labor by controlling the wages. This can be done by controlling the money. The great debt that capitalists will see to it is made out of the war must be used as a measure to control the volume of money. To accomplish this, bonds must be used as a banking basis. It will not do to allow the greenback as it is called to circulate as money for any length of time; for we cannot control them but we can control the bonds and through them the bank issue.

Senator Daniel of Virginia, in a speech delivered in the senate May 22, 1890, said: I take from the Bankers Magazine of Aug., 1878, a little extract. It says in 1872 silver being demonetized in Germany, England and Holland, a capital of $500,000 was raised, and Ernest Tyell was sent to this country with this fund as an agent for foreign bond holders to effect the same object, the demonetization of silver.

The Panic Circular.

Dear Sir: The interests of national bankers require immediate financial legislation by congress. Silver certificates and treasury notes must be retired and national bank notes upon a gold basis made the only money. This will require the authorization of from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 of new bonds as a basis of circulation. You at once retire one-third of the circulation and call in one-half of your loans.

Be careful to make a money stringency felt among your patrons, especially among influential business men; advocate an extra session of congress for the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law, and act with the banks of your city in securing a large petition to congress for its unconditional repeal as per accompanying form. Use personal influence with congressmen, and particularly let your wishes be known to senators, the future life of national banks as fixed, and safe investments depends upon immediate action as there is an increasing sentiment in favor of government legal tender notes and silver coinage, the first, last and main cause of the present financial situation is in the policy of the government in issuing $4,000,000 worth of silver coin each month and flooding the country with which at only 65 cents to the dollar. This has caused European brokers and owners of bonds to get a little shy of our policy. Matters have been coming to a head during the past two weeks and New York capitalists have been calling in their loans, and consequently causing some men to get squeezed.

The above was issued March 12, 1893, by the American Bankers' association to all national banks, and is taken from a small book called Cold Facts, and I should like every working man to read and study it.

It looks as if the money kings had things in their own hands to cause a panic any time they see fit. How long are the people to be held down by the corporation trusts money lenders? Why cannot the government make and issue money directly to the people at one per cent. on good security same as they do to the banks?

You can fool all the people part of the time and part of the people all the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time, said Lincoln.

I should like you to start a morning paper, I would be a subscriber to it, for I am disgusted with the present papers.

MERRELL-SOULE CO., Syracuse, N. Y.

Won't Talk at Present.

Indianapolis July 21.—General Harrison is making preparations for his start east. "This matter of silver," he said, yesterday, "is one that cannot be properly discussed in an interview. I should want to prepare such a report with the greatest care and deliberation, and it is proper to discuss the question only after such preparation, and then in a speech and not in an interview. I shall give some time to the campaign, but it is hardly probable, I think, that the campaign will open much more before September. The issue demands the closest study by every citizen, and needs to be treated in the most effective way possible. I cannot consent now to be quoted on the subject in a formal interview."

General Harrison expects to leave the city before the end of the week.

Terrible Swede Knocked Out.

Memphis, July 21.—Billy O'Donnell and John Lawson (the Terrible Swede) met here last night in a finish fight, and the Swede's seconds threw up the sponge after 26 rounds of fighting, lasting one hour and 51 minutes. In the early part of the fight O'Donnell punished the Swede severely. The Swede was very game and showed wonderful endurance. A great many fouls were committed, especially by O'Donnell.

Dying Out.

Cairo, July 21.—The cholera in Egypt shows a great abatement according to yesterday's reports, which show that there were 159 new cases and 119 deaths yesterday. There were, however, no deaths here or in Alexandria.

Railroad Out of Sight.

Skowhegan, Me., July 21.—Over 200 feet of the new roadbed of the Sebasticook and Moosehead railroad, in Harmony, has sunk from sight under 15 feet of water. The road was built through a bog.

More Christians Massacred.

Athens, July 21.—Ten Christians have been massacred at Heraklion, in the Island of Crete. French and English men-of-war have arrived there.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

THE Royal Baking Powder makes sweeter, lighter, finer-flavored and more wholesome bread, biscuit and cake than any other leavening agent. It is of higher strength, and therefore more economical. All government and scientific tests show that as a leavening agent it is actually without an equal.

Royal is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.—U. S. Gov't Chemist's Report.

From the Outlook.

We see strange changes in the attitude of the christian world. A Presbyterian pastor in a village where was situated a Roman Catholic school was disturbed by the boys playing ball on Sunday. Complaining to the apostolic delegate he receives a polite and prompt reply, and the Sunday base ball was at once stopped. It is hardly fair to insist that the policy of Rome is the same as it was 300 years ago. The higher officials may be approached and we receive not only a polite reply but prompt action.

THE COLOR LINE.

White and Colored Operatives Can't Agree in Southern Mills.

The Massachusetts corporation of this city, it is stated, is having trouble at its mill in Rome, Ga., owing to the employment of a number of colored women. The white employes refused to work with the colored people, and undoubtedly the managers will soon come to the conclusion that they must employ either all white people or all colored for the better positions at least.

Agent Southworth of the Massachusetts says he has heard of no such trouble.

Lands and Buildings Committee Award Contracts

FOR NEW SCHOOLHOUSES AND IMPROVEMENTS.

Councilman Penn Opposes Fuller-Warren System.

The committee on lands and buildings sat in Supt. Varnum's office for about three hours last evening and arranged for building new schoolhouses and making improvements on old ones.

The bids were as follows:

Carter street school, Carpenter work—C. H. Nelson, $9736; E. G. Twohey, $9327; E. W. Douglas, $8500; Whittet & McDonald, $7960; W. H. Wiggin, $7933.

Brick work—P. Corcoran, $14,914; Staples Bros., $13,721; F. O. White & Co., $13,500; J. Swett, $12,400; J. Jalbert, $12,152; P. O'Hearn, $11,564; J. H. Walker, $8497.

Plastering—J. H. Walker, common, $1917; D. M. Prescott, $1944; Walsh & Meers, $2099. There were higher figures for adamant and mixtures.

Sheet metal—H. H. Wilder & Co., $2039; W. A. Mack & Co., $1980; D. Cushing & Co., $1960; T. Costello & Co., $1898.

Iron and steel—Cushing & Co., $3275; Joel Knapp & Son, $2678; Chelmsford Iron Foundry Co., $2514.21.

Doors, sash and frames—Pratt and Forrest, $1349.40; Amasa Pratt & Co., $1267; Holmes & Bray, $1046.25.

Slating—R. Goulding & Son, $1266; J. L. Douglas, $1244; James Burns, $1190.

The contracts were awarded to W. H. Wiggin, J. H. Walker, T. Costello & Co., Chelmsford Foundry Co., Holmes & Bray, and James Burns in the several classes of work.

The Fuller & Warren Co., were given the contract for sanitaries at $1087. They were the sole bidders, no one else had a chance.

Pine Street School House.

Carpenter work—C. H. Nelson, $7150; M. I. Puino, $6533; E. W. Douglas, $5890; Wm. H. Wiggin, $4946.

Brick work—F. O. White, $2030; J. H. Walker, $1500; John Swett, $1390; P. Conlan, $850.

Plastering—J. H. Walker, $1082 and $1430, according to quality; Walsh & Meers, $1045 and $1400.

Doors, sashes and frames—Amasa Pratt & Co., $839; Pratt & Forrest, $835.55; Holmes & Bray, $738.50.

Plumbing—D. H. Wilson & Co., $704; Drury & Green, $697; H. R. Barker Co., $694; H. H. Wilder & Co., $687; Farrell & Conaton, $684; S. H. Jones, $683; Scott & O'Day, $675.

Gas piping—Scott and O'Day, $52; Costello & Co., $48; S. H. Jones, $46.50.

The figures of the slating were held back owing to a possible complication with another branch of work. J. L. Douglas, Goulding & Son and James Burns were the bidders.

Joel Knapp & Son, the only bidders, got the iron work at $24.

The Fuller & Warren Co. got the heating at $1100; and the sanitary, ten closets and one urinal, at $595.

The contracts for the general work were awarded to W. H. Wiggin, P. Conlon, Walsh & Meers, Holmes & Bray, Scott & O'Day, S. H. Jones, Joel Knapp & Son in the several classes. The slating contract went to James Burns, the lowest bidder, including sheet metal work.

Common plaster was selected for both school buildings.

Lincoln Street School House.

Plumbing—D. H. Wilson, $993; H. H. Wilder & Co., $994; Scott & O'Day, $989; Farrell & Conaton, $989; Drury & Green, $982; H. R. Barker Co., $972; S. H. Jones, $967, the latter getting the award.

Plain Street School House.

The Fuller & Warren Co got the contract for heating at $1666 and the sanitaries as before at $595.

Bartlett School House.

The Fuller & Warren Co. got the contract for 40 closets and a 20-foot urinal at $1652. The only bidders.

Lincoln School Addition.

The same company got the heating contract at $1121 and the sanitaries at $595, the only bidders.

The lowest bidder in each instance was awarded the contract.

The awarding of the heating contracts provoked a lively discussion. Councilman Penn stood firm against the Fuller-Warren system and advocated giving the preference to local bidders who, he believed, had a system just as good as the Fuller-Warren.

He also had a letter from Inspector White relative to the merit of other systems and Councilman Hounsell reminded him that in conversation with Inspector White, the latter found no fault with the Fuller-Warren system. But the committee decided upon the Fuller-Warren system and that settled it.

The Varnum school addition was next considered. The committee had already voted to build on the south side, but a change of sentiment has taken place and now the members favor building on the north side.

Alderman Dow, chairman of the committee on education, called that body to order,—for the two committees though they have the same members, have a different chairman—and heard a motion to rescind the previous vote of the committee regarding the building of the addition. It passed and also one recommending that the new part be built on the north end. Later the same committee voted to recommend the purchase of not more than 12,000 feet of land in Lexington avenue, off Varnum avenue for the construction of a two room primary school.

Then the lands and buildings committee was called to order again and voted to introduce a resolution into the city council providing for the transfer of $25,000 for the purchase of land on the north side of the Varnum school, and building the addition to the school.

A vote was then passed to introduce a resolution as for the transfer of not more than $4000 for the purchase of land in Lexington avenue for the erection of a new primary school. The superintendent of lands and buildings was empowered to draw up plans.

The chairman read a proposition from the owners of old city hall to hear Huntington hall, but no action was taken. Action was deferred on the building of a wall at the Lincoln school.

HAVERHILL GAZETTE

Favors Free Silver and Condemns the Gold Standard.

The Haverhill Gazette is to be congratulated upon its endorsement of the democratic platform, so far as the principal of bimetallism is concerned. The Gazette is always fair and outspoken.—Lowell Sun.

The Gazette is not willing to admit that bimetallism is distinctly a democratic doctrine, though grateful to its Lowell contemporary for its words of commendation. There are as many republicans as democrats who believe in bimetallism, nor need it occasion surprise if they make themselves felt on election day.

The Gazette supports McKinley because he stands for protection, reciprocity and other things necessary to the welfare of the nation. If the currency was the only question up for settlement this year, it would cast its lot and throw whatever influence it possesses against the mistaken theory that the prosperity of this country is indissolubly connected with gold monometallism. It realizes, as everybody must, that to contract the money supply means hard times; that if we are ever to have prosperity our currency must be made more elastic.

THEATRICAL NEWS.

Lakeview Theatre.

The Western-Remier company opened their engagement at the Lakeview theatre last evening, and notwithstanding the inclement weather there was a large and respectable audience present. The performance opens with the one-act drama "In Honor Bound," and concludes with a two-act farce comedy entitled "A Box of Monkeys." The company is made up of the following named artists who are all clever in their respective rolls: Helen Reimer, Kendall Weston, Georgie Lawrence, Frank Walcott, Miss Mary Annable and Charles Fleming. Miss Lawrence made quite a hit last evening as "Sierra Benzaline." She is a clever little actress and won merited applause. The performance gave great satisfaction and will doubtless attract large crowds nightly during the week.

BITTEN BY A CAT.

A Whole Family is Threatened With Hydrophobia.

An entire family, consisting of five persons, was bitten by a pet family cat at Cambridge, yesterday morning, and serious results are expected, as the cat was evidently suffering from rabies.

John Hanlon, his wife and three small children, reside on School street, and for some time they have made a pet of a large gray cat.

Yesterday morning the cat suddenly jumped at one of the children and bit him badly on the left leg.

The child screamed when the animal bit him and the mother rushed to his assistance. The cat jumped upon her and tore her clothes. Mrs. Hanlon screamed and threw the animal off and fled aboard to escape, but the cat jumped at her again and again, and bit her several times.

The cat ran through the house from room to room with Mr. Hanlon in pursuit, but before it was finally killed two police officers had to be called in and then the animal was only killed after it had been impaled on a pitchfork and shot with a revolver.

The animal bit both the other children while Mr. Hanlon was endeavoring to catch it, and then when he did finally drive the cat into a corner, she turned furiously and bit him several times upon the legs and hands.

A NOVEL CHARGE

Brought Against a Woman in the Police Court.

The case of Mary Conway, charged with aiding and abetting a liquor nuisance, the complainant being the liquor inspectors, came up in police court this morning, and goes on record as the first case on that charge that has ever appeared in the Lowell police court.

The defendant, through her counsel, John J. Hogan, Esq., pleaded not guilty and the case was continued one week.

The complaint is brought under section 20 of chapter 100 and section 9 of chapter 101 of the public statutes, which state that in case of a conviction for violation of the liquor law the owner of premises or person in charge of the building in apartments wherein the violation has taken place should be formally notified of such conviction by the court. Then should a similar offence be committed again in the same building or apartments, the parties notified are liable to arrest for aiding and abetting in the maintenance of a liquor nuisance and the penalty is similar to that imposed for a liquor nuisance.

The defendant in this case, Mary Conway, owns a block on Salem street, where some time ago, a party named Barry, a tenant in the block, was convicted of violation of the law, it is claimed Mrs. Conway was notified of the conviction and recently the same tenant, it is said, was in again on a similar complaint and pleaded guilty, hence the complaint against the owner, Mrs. Conway.

LOWELL MAN

Charged With Swindling Operations in Portsmouth, N. H.

The police of Portsmouth, N. H., yesterday, arrested C. M. Clark, alias C. E. Currier, of this city, charged with embezzlement. He represented himself as the agent of the Hartford Life Insurance Co., it is said, and swindled several people.

Clark kept out of the way until yesterday, when he was captured. He acknowledged his guilt and was willing to re-imburse one of his victims.

He is believed to have done the same trick in other cities.

FUNERALS.

McELHOLM—There was a large congregation present this morning at the Immaculate Conception church, when the funeral services of the late William McElholm took place. The services were conducted by the Rev. William D. Joyce, O. M. I., and the singing was by the church choir under the direction of Prof. Haggerty. At the offertory Mr. T. F. Molloy rendered the "Pie Jesu." Mr. James Donnelly rendered a solo as the casket was borne from the church. The funeral procession was a very large one and a number of men walked behind the mourning carriage. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery.

PRESIDENT WEPT

At the Funeral Services of Ex-Governor Russell.

As the last words of the sermon were spoken it could be noticed that there were many in the vast audience who were shedding tears. From time to time President Cleveland passed his handkerchief across his eyes, and it could be seen that he was greatly affected by what was taking place. Joseph Jefferson, an old time friend of the dead ex-governor was also moved to tears and oft times he bowed his head upon the pew rail before him.

Young Men's Democratic Club.

Tomorrow night there will be organized a Young Men's Democratic club. The first meeting will be held in the citizens' committee room in Huntington hall at 7.30 tomorrow evening.

The club will be composed entirely of young men and will be organized for campaign purposes.

Any young man desiring to become a member is invited to attend the meeting tomorrow evening.

Mr. Edward Boyle, the well known grocer, and his sister, Miss Annie Boyle, have gone on a trip to New York and Philadelphia.

HORRIBLE DEATH

One of Gage's Ice Carts Crushes Child

OF WILLIAM LUBY ON WHITING STREET.

The Wheels Passing Over Its Neck.

A frightful accident occurred in Whiting street this morning in which a child named Thomas Luby, about 14 months old was killed almost instantly.

The father of the child is William Luby, the well-known athlete. Illness compelled him to remain in the house today, and as his wife was at work, he allowed a little girl named Higgins to take the baby out for its morning ride. The girl pushed the baby carriage around for awhile and then returned to the house in Whiting street, leaving the carriage with the baby in it outside.

Just then another girl took hold of the carriage and started to turn it around.

As she was doing so one of Dan Gage's ice carts came around the corner, struck the wheels of the carriage and tipped it over.

The baby rolled into the street and before the driver could hold up the horses, the wheel of the heavy wagon passed over the child's neck.

The child lived only a few moments.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Louis Lebran has gone to Cohoes, N. Y.

Mr. Arsene Lajoie, Misses Laprise, Cinq Mars, Levasseur and Landry are at Three Rivers.

Rev. Bro. Alexius, provincial of the Xaverian Brothers, is expected in this city in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Garbutt of Sycamore, Ill., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Adams of Highland street.

Miss Lizzie L. Henry of No. 30 Fulton street will spend three weeks vacation at Manchester, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Antoine Desaulniers and Miss Handsey Desaulniers have gone on their vacation to Canada.

William H. Conners, one of the Board of Health inspectors has gone to Manchester-by-the-sea for his vacation.

Miss Bloch, a handsome and very talented young lady of Boston, is the guest of Miss Celia Fels at Tray Rock cottage.

Miss Mary McGovern, principal of the Wood street school, with her cousin, Miss Egan, is to go to Old Orchard on August 1 for a stay of two weeks.

Mr. L. W. Weeks of the Cigar Makers' Union of this city, will attend as a delegate from this city the convention of the New England labor league to be held in Hartford, Conn., August 5th.

Misses Mary O'Boyle, Katie O'Boyle, Julia Riley, Katie McDermott, Mary E. McDermott and Mr. Frank McDermott left yesterday for New York. Later they will make a tour through Pennsylvania and return to Lowell about the first of September.

Police Court—Pickman, J.

It was decidedly uncomfortable in court this morning, especially for the offenders.

John Shea who was in only a few days ago raised a disturbance in a Central street store while drunk last night and was sent to the workhouse for seven months.

Daniel A. McDonald received ten months in jail.

Annie Ricker will spend half a year in jail.

George Shields appealed from four months.

Alfred Lefebre and George Duplex, two French boys, charged with breaking and entering, were continued until Friday.

James Degnan, who stabbed Henry McCabe on the night of July 3, was held in $400 for the Grand jury.

Hands Up! Again.

The Hogans are making elaborate preparations for their annual outing, which will take place at Mountain Rock on Wednesday, Aug. 12. The usual cawbastha feature will be abandoned this year, and a clam-bake will be substituted. The annual ball game of the Hogans and Big 12 will take place, while there will be additional features for suitable prizes under the direction of John Rourke, the well known wrestler and trainer of the Hogans.

WHY OF COURSE

You can wear bicycle shoes even if you don't ride the wheel—but DON'T ride the wheel without bicycle shoes—they are not expensive and they are very comfortable.

We have them all sizes, for women, for boys and for men.

Like the bicycles they are now down to a fine fit, light in weight, light in color and light in price. Men's elk side face bicycle shoes with elastic sides at $2, and boys cruckproof bicycle shoes at $1.25. Ladies' bicycle oxfords, black and chocolate, the ball bearing kind, a very natty shoe at $3. Ladies' canvas leggins, Tan, Blue, and Black at 40c. High cut bicycle boots in chocolate and black kid in stock, also make them to order.

We have of course a full line of good shoes for people who still continue to walk there a few of us walkers left) and for these people we try to make walking as comfortable as possible—in ladies' summer oxfords almost every kind from $5 down to $2, both in Tan and Black are down to $3, and most of the $3 and $2.50 kind are down to $2, now is a good time to buy those Men's $6 Seal Skin Balmorals at $5.

A COSTLY PAGEANT

New Free Street Parade of the Barnum & Bailey Show About 9 O'clock-Mardi-gras Feature

With the usual disregard of expense and with the energy that has characterized every effort of Barnum & Bailey, they have designed a new street parade for the pleasure of the people, and when it is stated that it is freely offered upon the same generous scale as the performances within the tents, one can easily imagine its magnificent splendors. All the crowned heads of the world—the reigning soverings—in coaches of state, in royal robes, on horseback surrounded with their escorts, the military uniforms of all nations, in groups and picturesque oriental style are represented in the most truthful and correct manner, together with a magnificent display of open dens of wild beasts and carved golden chariots, containing the splendid zoological collection, followed by twenty-four elephants, the allegorical chariots illustrating nursery rhymes and children's fairy stories, together with the Duryea Motor Wagon or horseless carriage, the identical vehicle winning the race in November last. As the bills say, "It is worth coming miles to see, and once seen never forgotten." The parade will take place about nine o'clock tomorrow morning.

Some of the Famous Artists

The specialties introduced comprise many of the leading artists in vaudeville shows throughout the country. Among those of national repute are the following: Ashley living statuary, Drawee a clever juggler; Ferdinanda Ghinseretta, unequalled acrobats; Laroche, globe ascending spiral incline; with the Lamonts, the Sillbons, the Ledorns, the Pattens and the clowns Spader Johnson, William Herbert and Caron.

The equestrian acts and the hippodrome race naturally take the first place. William Showles is the principal bareback rider, and it is claimed for him that he is the finest in the world, and that he has never been surpassed in the past, even by riders of so great reputation as Robinson and Fish. RoseWentworth, Josie Ashton and the Meers sisters do some of the finest riding by the women. One of the things that is found most delightful by the patrons of the circus is the exhibition of 51 horses in a single ring, and directed by a single man, an act that could never be placed upon a stage except such a vast one, especially built for equestrian acts, as Astley has in London.

The Route of Parade

The route of parade will be: Fair Grounds, Gorham, to Central, to Middlesex, to Thorndike, to Dutton, to Merrimack, to Central, to Gorham, and then back to the grounds.

The performances will be at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m.

TELEGRAPHIC SERVICE

Furnished Freely to the Lowell Newspapers—Wednesday's Convention to be Similarly Reported.

The news from the last two conventions was furnished the Lowell papers free of charge by the two local telegraphic companies, the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph company.

The bulletins were sent direct from the convention hall, and while the men were speaking their words were flashed along the wires to Lowell.

Although The Sun has the Associated Press telegraphic service it availed itself freely of the bulletin service which gave a very full skeleton report of the entire proceedings.

The new manager, Mr. Conry of the Postal Union, is a great hustler, and Mr. Carey of the Western Union is one of the very best men in the business. His many Lowell friends will regret his departure for Providence where he is to take charge of the company's business. He is very popular with the local newspaper men.

It is stated that the populist convention will be reported same as the St. Louis and Chicago.

BASE BALL.

The Urban and Suburban league has gained a reputation not confined to this city. It is known all over New England as a very promising league and a fast one withal. Having heard, no doubt, of the interest that is being taken in base ball here, Mr. Fred Mason, manager of the strong Fall River team of the New England league, was in town yesterday looking the field over with a view to having the Fall River team transferred to this city for the remainder of the season, and to start next season as the Lowells.

The Fall Rivers for the past few years have led the New England league, and the public until recently has supported them well, Fall River being known as the best ball town, excepting Boston, in the State. Lately, interest has left the game and attendances have been poor owing, perhaps, as Mr. Mason said, to the fact that the people were tired of seeing their good team beating a lot of poor ones with ease. He had heard that Lowell is giving the league great support and believed that there would be the place to bring the Fall Rivers.

The Press nine will be pitted against the city hall team, Thursday, Aug. 13, at the Cricket Grounds. The Press nine will be composed as follows: Sternberg, Dowling, Pickering, Brown, Cahill, Henrn, Paradis, Lamberton and Shea.

City Base Ball.

The committee of the city council appointed to arrange for the base ball game with the Boston city council will hold a meeting this evening to decide upon a date and select a nine.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Tonight the aldermen will meet, and it will probably be the last regular session till September, as the custom is to take a rest during August.

Mayor Courtney attended the funeral of ex-Governor Russell yesterday afternoon.

A meeting of the committee on accounts will be held this afternoon to approve the Fourth of July bills. It may be that the bills will not be paid till Thursday.

Mitten's Company.

Company M went to camp this morning at Framingham. Four men, Corporal Zesewitz, Sergeant O'Connor, Privates Morrison and Kennedy left yesterday for the camping ground to make arrangements for the reception of their comrades.

Friday will be governor's day at the camp and it is expected that many Lowell people will be present on that occasion.

School Board.

Next Monday night will be the regular meeting night of the school board, but by vote of the board at its last meeting, no session will be held till the last Monday in August.

TO BOBBY BURNS

Let All Toast His Memory Today.

THE CENTENARY OF NATURE'S OWN POET.

It is Being Celebrated All The World Around.

One hundred years ago, after a most remarkable career, brilliant as it was meteoric, thoroughly disgusted with the world's vain show and worn out mentally, physically and morally, Bobbie Burns, the pride of all the Scots, closed his eyes forever upon the beauties of his native heaths and Bonnie Scotland.

Today is the centennial of that untimely taking away and the century having rolled away, even now the prophecy of Bobbie Burns, that "a hundred years hence, they'll think mair o'me than they do now," has been fulfilled and not only Scots, the world over, but every lover of nature's own poet will make some recognition of this memorial event.

The celebration of the day was undoubtedly suggested and brought about by the growing popularity of the poetical works of Burns, which, while they were ever held in highest esteem by sons of Bonnie Scotland, have of late grown very popular with lovers of poetry, while Time with its softening influence has placed the mantle of charity over the short-comings of the untutored peasant, and like our own Poe, he is only remembered by the sweet songs and his wonderful genius for which the world is at least a little better.

Wonderful was his genius. Born as he was in Ayr Jan. 25, 1759, a poor Scottish peasant, with nothing to assist him on his journey to fame save his own natural yet undeveloped gifts, he sprang as the meteor from out the clouded heavens to fame and reputation beyond even his fondest hopes. As his biographer and brother Scot, Carlyle, aptly describes him: "This month he is a ruined peasant, his wages seven pounds a year and those gone from him; next month he is amid the blaze of rank and beauty, handing down duchesses to dinner, the cynosure of all eyes." Is it any wonder that this sudden transition from the lowly confines of the poor and ignorant to the exalted environments of wealth and royalty should have proved disastrous to his untried nature?

Burns possessed neither education, opportunity nor the influence and encouragement of a more matured mind and yet he achieved fame. A thorough child of nature he was a poet in fact, and his songs so simple, so sweet and so true to nature, were indeed captivating and were refreshing when compared with the poetry of the artificial age of the century preceding his time. True, he lacked the metrical harmony and correctness of his predecessors, yet his genius as a sweet lyrist has never been excelled and gave him at once a leading place as a poet of distinction.

His songs have made him most popular with his countrymen while his genius is displayed to better advantage in his longer poems, such as the "Cotter's Saturday Night" and the "Jolly Beggars."

The centenary is observed with great demonstrations in Scotland today. At Dumfries today an immense pilgrimage was made to the tomb of the bard, the different societies in line placing wreaths upon the grave.

In this country celebrations take place in all the large cities, while in this city the Scotch residents, notably the Caledonian club will give the event due recognition.

Years may roll by and times may change, but the Scots will be Scots while the race endures, and the memory of Bobbie Burns will ever remain green in the breasts of the lads and lasses from the land o' "Bonny Doon."

The local Scotch residents will observe the centenary of Bobbie Burns this evening at the residence of Mr. James J. Ramsay, 2 Runels' place. Many of them will attend the big celebration in Boston.

CUBANS GLAD

That Enrique Mola, a Daring Warrior, with 2000 Men Has Taken the Field.

Tampa, Fla., July 21.—The Cubans here are elated over important news received by private advices stating that Enrique Mola now commands 2000 well-armed men in the province of Puerto Principe, each man having 200 cartridges. Mola distinguished himself during the 10 years of the last revolution. He was pledged to take the field at the beginning of this struggle, but did not, going to Mexico instead.

STRIKE SETTLED.

The New Bedford Weavers Go to Work on a New Agreement.

New Bedford, Mass., July 21.—The striking weavers at Whitman mill appointed a committee to visit Treasurer Diman. The committee subsequently reported to the meeting that Mr. Diman promised to give an equivalent of $9 a week in wages. It was voted to return to work for two weeks to see how the agreement would work.

Can't Eat

This is the complaint of thousands at this season. They have no appetite; food does not relish. They need the toning up of the stomach and digestive organs, which a course of Hood's Sarsaparilla will give them. It also purifies and enriches the blood, cures that distress after eating and internal misery only a dyspeptic can know, creates an appetite, overcomes that tired feeling and builds up and sustains the whole physical system. It so promptly and efficiently relieves dyspeptic symptoms and cures nervous headaches, that it seems to have almost "a magic touch."

A TRIPLE MURDER

Committed Aboard a United States Vessel.

CAPTAIN, HIS WIFE AND OFFICER KILLED.

Mutinous Crew Under Arrest at Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., July 21.—The brigantine Herbert Fuller, Capt. Nash, from Boston, July 8, to Rosario, put into this port this morning with the stars and stripes at half mast and the black flag, the sign of mutiny on board, floating under it.

The arrival of the vessel aroused the greatest excitement and a large crowd assembled at the water front.

A party of men put out to ship and boarding it found that murder as well as mutiny had been enacted on board.

Capt. Nash, his wife, Laura, and second officer Bunberry were found murdered in their bunks. The bodies were horribly mutilated and blood was spattered all about the bunks, showing that a struggle had taken place. The weapon used was an axe.

The cook, Joseph Sheere, of Rosario suspected the first mate, Thomas Brown, and succeeded in putting him in irons, together with the man at the wheel.

The other man on board was Frank Mouch of Boston, a passenger. All were placed under arrest.

The U. S. consul has telegraphed to Washington for instructions and has enjoined all to strictest silence for the present.

It has been learned, however, that the murder took place on the 13th inst. The captain and wife were in a bunk separated from Banbury's bunk by that of Mouch, and the crime was committed during the first officer's watch.

The bodies were lowered into a boat and towed into port covered with canvass behind the vessel.

The fuller was built in 1891 in Harrington, Me., and is owned by Swan & Co., of New York. Harrington, Me., parties also having an interest.

The vessel had a cargo of timber, consigned by J. C. Elliot, of Boston.

Bryan Offers Suggestions.

Lincoln, Neb., July 20—Mr. Bryan this morning drew up this statement to the public:

My daily mail has grown so large that I find it impossible to read all letters received and still more impossible to reply at length to each. Those who are interested in the success of our cause will pardon me for making the following suggestion:

First—As time will not permit a full discussion of political questions in so large a number of private letters, I shall, in order to avoid discrimination, reserve all such discussions for public occasions.

Second—All offers of services and suggestions as to the conduct of the campaign should be made to the national committeemen representing the various states and territories.

Third—All requests for campaign literature should be addressed to the secretary of the national committee at national headquarters as soon as headquarters are opened.

HOT FROM THE WIRE.

George Swan, a farmer at Athoca, near Dryden, Mo., killed his three children, set fire to his house and then blew his brains out this morning. The recent death of his wife caused mental derangement.

The court overruled the motion of Dr. Jameson's counsel to quash the indictment against the raiders and all pleaded not guilty.

Chinatown in San Francisco is in a furore over the feud in the Lee Yup Co. and others, of which the murder of Lee Tye, yesterday, was but an incident. The hatchet men are being offered large rewards to kill several wealthy men who are marked for death.

The populist situation is in a chaotic state. The extremists who oppose Bryan mention Paul Van Deven, E. V. Debs, Congressman Towne and Gen. Pettigrew, while the Bryan managers are confident that the convention will endorse the democrat nominee and platform.

The trouble at the Melrose sewer strike still continues and the Italians today cried for food and threatened any one who would attempt to work in their places.

A MAN HURT

At the Old Tannery Building on Plain Street.

A man employed on the old tannery building on Plain street, fell from the roof and struck on a beam between two vats. His back was injured, and he was removed in the ambulance to his home, 207 Worthen street.

The man's name is Thomas McGinness.

North Andover Mills.

The North Andover mills, heretofore under the management of John H. Sutton, will hereafter be conducted by a company composed of Mrs. Lila Sutton Young, presidens; William Sutton, treasurer; the directors, Mrs. Young, William Sutton and William Perry of Salem. The mills are located in North Andover and employ about 250 hands. William Sutton will be active manager, John H. Sutton being retained in a subordinate capacity.

"WELCOME TO OUR CHIEF."

Firemen Have Planned a Big Reception to Chief Hosmer.

"Welcome Home to Our Chief," will blaze from scores of gas jets, over the entrance to Chief Hosmer's house.

It will be a royal welcome to the Chief, fresh from his trip across the water. Arrangements have been all completed for the welcome and Mr. Hosmer now sailing over the ocean blue little dreams of what awaits him. Acting Chief Norton, who has attended to all the details, has received valuable assistance from the fire department committee and the men in the various houses.

The Chief will arrive in New York Friday night or early Saturday morning and will be met on his arrival in Boston by Engineer Salmon and Capt. Hurley of Engine 6.

They will arrive in Lowell at 8.10 and will be received by Mayor Courtney, Chas. H. Richardson, and the committee on fire department. The Veteran firemen and as many of the regular men as can be spared will be there with the Lowell Military band.

The procession will form and proceed down Thorndike, Dutton, Merrimack, Central, Middlesex, School and Westford streets to the chief's house.

Along the line red fire will be burned, and the chief's house will be illuminated by Japanese lanterns.

The words, "Welcome Home to Our Chief," will be in a frame 15 feet high and 16 feet wide.

At the house there will be speeches and a display of fireworks.

Millinery Fire.

A fire in the window of M. J. Martin's millinery store on Palmer street, last evening, did damage to the amount of $50. The fire was caused by the lace curtains blowing against the gas jets and igniting.

Got Off Wrong End To.

An unknown woman got off a morning electric car backwards in the square yesterday and collided with the pavements. She received quite a shaking up, but was otherwise uninjured.

Wires Cause Fire.

The crossed wires caused a fire on a pole at the corner of Middlesex and Thorndike streets last night. Wires and pole only were damaged.

FOR PRESIDENT.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN of Nebraska

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

ARTHUR SEWALL of Maine

This is truly a campaign of sixteen to one, the sixteen toilers to one money lender.

The republicans are beginning to sneer at Bryan's oratory as that of a boy. How is it with McKinley, the man who cannot open his mouth except when Mark Hanna gives him permission?

The manner in which McKinley avoids it indicates that he regards the financial plank as the Dead Man's Corner of the St. Louis platform.—New York Journal.

McKinley does not believe in it but he dare not say so.

The democrats of Lowell await with interest the coming of George Fred Williams to the ratification meeting Friday night. It is expected that all the sceptics on the silver question will come to hear him, and profit by his address. No voter has a right to claim allegiance to the democratic party while bolting the ticket.

The present campaign has evolved a new political character; it is the "bugwump." The bugwump is a political factor who has deserted the democratic party to aid the advocates of the gold standard, the millionaires and the money kings, who now oppose the masses in the movement for free silver. The term bugwump is analagous to mugwump, only that the former relates to scepticism on one subject, the latter on many.

It is now assumed that the leaders of the republican party will buy out the Populist convention, and prevent it from endorsing Bryan if it can be bought. Manager Hanna has opened headquarters at Chicago as well as in the east, and will be able to dispense the sinews of war from two great centres throughout the country. The millionaires and the Populists will now send their contributions to the McKinley campaign fund in order that the election may be carried by money, if in no other way. But there is in the south and west a determination to secure free silver that no amount of boodle or bribery can ever overturn. If the north and the east would only do their duty, the victory of the democratic party would be complete.

The Barnum and Bailey show will be in town tomorrow, and that vast aggregation is a forcible reminder to business men of the benefits derived from advertising. Mr. Barnum, when alive, was the greatest believer in the efficacy of advertising that America has seen for several generations. To intelligent and ingenious advertising, Barnum owed in a great measure his success. He was the author of the statement that "the public likes to be humbugged," but he never undertook to humbug the public. His motto was to give the people the worth of their money in a show, and by so doing, he got together the greatest show on earth. It will be here tomorrow, and everybody should see it; it is bigger and better than ever before.

NO STRADDLES TOLERATED.

Speaking of the Globe and Post, two democratic papers that have refused to accept the democratic platform, the Haverhill Gazett says:

"The Boston Globe and Post cannot bring themselves to the point of supporting McKinley, nor is either of these eminent exponents of pure and undefiled democracy ready to pledge allegiance to the regular democratic nominee. Like Micawber, they are waiting for something to turn up, and, to carry the illustration a little farther, they are both, like Micawber, doomed to disappointment. There is no middle ground for either of them to occupy. They have mistaken the symptoms of the disease which is eating out the vitals of the party whose principles both pretend to love. Their diagnosis is all wrong. The fight now is between the democratic masses and the plutocratic classes.

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

MUCH LIKE POTTER'S CLAY

McKINLEY IS A TOOL IN THE HANDS OF THE TRUSTS.

Accepted Their Money as a Gift to Pay His Debts—His Record as a Public Servant Unsavory—Hobart Has Nothing but His "Bar'l" to Recommend Him.

The trusts' candidate for the presidency, William McKinley of Ohio, is, personally, one of the most adroit and cunning politicians that this age of politicians has yet produced, says the Kansas City Times. He is a demagogue of the first water, as smooth a stump speaker as ever galled a gaping crowd with campaign catch cries and anecdotes, and his character can be estimated best, perhaps, from this one fact, that he became a bankrupt several years ago, although engaged in no occupation save politics, and when Mr. Mark Hanna and several other millionaire presidents of trusts made up a purse and paid his debts he accepted the money as a gift and has been like potter's clay in their hands ever since.

Mr. McKinley's record as a public servant is short, and still more unfortunate in its results than his management of his private affairs.

As governor of Ohio he held office for two terms and left an empty treasury when he went out of office.

As congressman from Ohio he became a candidate for the speakership, and, being badly beaten by Thomas B. Reed, congressional etiquette required that he should be appointed chairman of the ways and means committee. This committee prepared a tariff bill, with the assistance of the manufacturers and presidents of great monopolies, who wrote their own figures of protection, so called, in the bill, and in spite of the indignant remonstrance of that master spirit of the Republican party, James G. Blaine, who smashed his hat upon the committee's table and declared that the bill would not create a new market for nor raise the price of a pound of meat or a bushel of grain produced in this country, the committee succeeded in passing the McKinley bill through congress.

The results of the McKinley bill, stated in brief, from the date of its passage in 1890 to Aug. 28, 1894, when it was repealed, were as follows:

First.—Under its provisions prohibiting competition over 100 trusts were organized, covering nearly all the necessaries and comforts of life, including food, clothing, lumber, nails, agricultural implements, glass, coffins, coal, iron, steel, cotton ties, etc.

Second.—Although the McKinley act increased the average rate of protection to the manufacturers about 26 per cent, there was not a single raise of wages in a protected industry after its passage nor until its repeal.

Third.—From the passage of the McKinley act in 1890 up to November, 1892, there were over 1,200 shut downs, lockouts and strikes in the industries "protected" by its tariff rates. Among these was the "culminating atrocity of McKinleyism," the Homestead strike, in which thousands of American wage earners were turned out to starve and, when they resisted, shot down by Pinkerton's constabulary.

Fourth.—The McKinley act caused a steady falling off in the revenues of the government, from over $100,000,000 of surplus left by the Cleveland administration in 1889 to a deficit in the last fiscal year of its operation, from June 30, 1893, to June 30, 1894, amounting to $72,000,000.

Fifth.—The disinterested and best posted political economists of the country, Republican as well as Democratic, declared that the McKinley act divided the honors with the Sherman purchasing act of causing the terrific panic of 1893, from the effects of which the country is even now slowly recovering.

Sixth.—Under the operation of the McKinley act the prices of clothing and nearly all the necessities of life were raised so high as to be in many cases entirely out of the reach of a workingman and his family, and such a thing as a wholesome, healthful woolen suit of clothes or woolen dress became a rarity among persons of ordinary means.

Mr. McKinley's running mate, the Republican bosses' candidate for the vice presidency, is Mr. G. A. Hobart, ostensibly from New Jersey, but in reality a New York clubman and idler. His political biography is, like most Republican virtues, a negative quantity, but he has a "bar'l," and he is the faithful tool and servant of innumerable other "bar'ls" in and around New York. His money is expected to pull the ticket through the tight places.

All in all, the Republican party has from its standpoint done its work well, through its head boss, Hanna, and the ticket for 1896 may be fairly classed as a typical Republican ticket.

But if there is a tithe of the patriotism of our forefathers left in the land the trusts' ticket will be buried out of sight in November, as The Times earnestly hopes and believes it will.

Don't Know Where to Plant It.

McKinley evidently regards the Republican nomination this year as a dog does an extra bone, only he doesn't know in what part of the garden to bury it.—Atlanta Constitution.

Sorry For It.

"Who made McKinley?" shouted the Reed men. And then they answered, "Reed made him!" But how sorry Reed is now that he did that job.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Poor Subject For Enthusiasm.

The convention orators showed to little advantage. It is difficult to grow eloquent over as poor a subject as McKinley.—Exchange.

He'll Probably Plug.

If Governor Morton now plugs his bar'l for the rest of the year, who shall blame him?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

SUNBEAMS.

He Was Engaged.

"We might hire a new clerk," said the druggist, "if he were a good one. Are you a graduate in pharmacy?"

"No," said the man who wanted a job, "I ain't a graduate in pharmacy, and I don't intend to be. I ain't looking for a cheap job. But I can draw soda water with both hands at once and know how to make 144 different sirups."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Midsummer Night's Idyl.

The night winds sighed.

She shivered slightly. "I think," she murmured, "that I ought to have something around me."

A strange, sweet thrill shot through the arm of the manly youth at her side.

The night wind sighed another batch.—New York Press.

Utterly Reckless.

Prudent Mamma—Rosamond, you ought not to permit that young Spoonamore to be so attentive to you. What do you know of him? He may be a wholly unworthy young man.

Miss Rosamond—I don't care if he committed the crime of 1873. He always buys ice cream soda.—Chicago Record.

Not Up to the Requirements.

"I'm sorry, miss," said the leading director of the school in Milkweed township to the young woman who had applied for the position of teacher, "but your orthography ain't up to grade. You don't even seem to know how to spell chimbly."—Chicago Tribune.

Working Well.

"By the way, Jackson, how are you getting along with your patent icemaking machine?"

Jackson—Great. We formed a stock company, and have already frozen out the president and ten stockholders.—Town Topics.

The Wondrous Laws of Nature.

"The great curse of modern social life is the overcrowding of the cities," said the parrot philosopher.

"Too true," admitted the other man; "but I think the trolley cars and ambulances will eradicate the evil in time."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Envy.

The clover is thick where the honey bee roves,
With his knapsack and weapon so keen,
And blossoming trees in the deep shadowed groves
Invite him to feast all serene.
Wherever he utters his troubadour song
The portals wide open are found.
No matter how many invaders may throng,
There is always enough to go round.

But alack for our busy humanity's hive,
Whence songless the toiler must go
Where the thorns, not the roses, assist us to thrive,
Where the swift so soon distance the slow!
Life's pleasures are sweet when fate's locks are released,
But by many the key is ne'er found,
And a sadness remains at the fireside and feast
That there isn't enough to go round.
—Washington Post.

Mrs. Brown: "Is that you, William?"

Mr. Brown: "Who else are you 'shpectin thish time of day?"

ONE AMONG MANY.

The Returned Lover, the Summer Girl and the Strange, Sad Sequel.

Scene—Piazza of a summer hotel. Seated in a large rocking chair is a regulation summer girl. Enter, to her, a lawn tennis youth.

The Youth (joyfully)—Why, this is a most unexpected pleasure. I hardly hoped to find you here.

The Girl (with some embarrassment)—We were among the first arrivals. But—

The Youth (gallantly)—Had I known that I should have left town earlier.

The Girl (with a half smile)—You are very good. But, pardon me for saying so, you have somewhat the advantage of me.

The Youth (in surprise)—The advantage of you! Have you forgotten the lawn tennis games of last year?

The Girl—No, indeed. I am too fond of the game.

The Youth—Don't you remember the buckboard drives on the old shingle road?

The Girl—Perfectly. I hope to go on many more this summer.

The Youth (seating himself beside her)—Surely your memory is not lost to the little canoeing parties, unchaperoned, out to the island, where all resolved themselves into pairs as fancy and inclination dictated?

The Girl (enthusiastically)—Oh, no. I shall never forget those.

The Youth (in a low voice)—Or the evening strolls on the board walk, with an occasional seat in some sheltered nook, safe from the moonlight and—and the others?

The Girl (a soft light in her eyes)—How could I forget such things?

The Youth (bending closer)—Do you not recall one night—it was the night of a hotel hop, I think—when, tired of dancing, you wandered away toward the surf with—with—well, we will say with the man to whom you had given nearly every waltz?

The Girl (with flushed cheeks and faint voice)—Yes, I think I do.

The Youth—And how he whispered in your ear that he loved you and would always love you?

The Girl (whose face is now scarlet)—Yes, yes, but—

The Youth—Although you would not whisper back that you loved him in return, still you told him that he might love you if he wished; that you wanted him to love you; that you would think of him all through the dreary winter in the city?

The Girl (who has now quite recovered her composure)—And, admitting all this to be true?

The Youth (puzzled)—I do not understand you. You say you remember everything, and yet—

The Girl—I have not forgotten anything. I recall it all—in fact, other things that you have not mentioned. But—

The Youth (blankly)—But—

The Girl (looking him calmly in the eyes)—I don't seem to be able to place you.—New York Sunday World.

The office boy entered and stood before the great editor awaiting his commands.

The usual number of battles were described in the next morning's paper.—Truth.

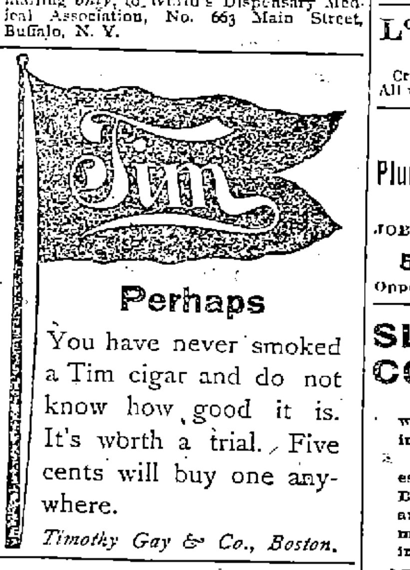

RICH RED BLOOD is the foundation of good health. That is why Hood's Sarsaparilla, the One True Blood Purifier, gives HEALTH.

Who doesn't know that horrid nightmare when the feet refuse to move, and you drag yourself along by main force, with some sort of terror chasing after you? It is something the same way with the waking nightmare of "biliousness." It seems to paralyze your energies, weigh you down like lead; and drag you back with an unshakeable clutch. You can't get away from the misery that pursues you. You feel dull and languid and low-spirited; your appetite is poor, your stomach is out of order, your sleep is disturbed, you are irritable and "cranky." There's no real lively enjoyment of life. What you need is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to tone up your liver and help it in working the impurities out of your blood. The liver has a large share of this purifying work to do and sometimes it gets over-loaded so the impurities back up on to the other organs of the body: the kidneys or skin or lungs, and take root, then it's a harder matter to clear them out. Wherever they settle they are all blood diseases just the same, and the "Discovery," will cure any blood disease that was ever named, scrofula, eczema, catarrh, ulcers, swellings, severe coughs and even consumption. But the cure is a harder job when the trouble has gone as far as that. The right way is to go at these impurities before they take root, while they are still floating in the blood and over-loading the liver. Drive them out early. You can do it surely every time, with the "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is the greatest family doctor book ever published. It explains human physiology and the laws of life and health in plain yet scientific language. It has had a tremendous sale; 680,000 copies at $1.50 each bound in cloth. The present free edition is the same in all respects except that it is bound in strong manilla paper covers. A copy will be absolutely given away to anyone who sends 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE POPULIST FACTIONS

Very Much Divided Upon Choice of Candidates.

No Prospect of a Compromise—Republican Influence Felt in Opposition to Endorsing Bryan and Sewall—What Mr. Ignatius Donnelly Says.

St. Louis, July 21.—The "Middle of the Road" men express great confidence in their strength. More than 100 delegates to the Populist convention have registered at their headquarters. Of these seven expressed a preference for Bryan and two say they are for fusion on the electors. The others are pronounced for a straight ticket and a fight against the nomination or endorsement of Bryan. The delegates who registered came from all parts of the country, there being much more than a majority of the states represented. The "Middle of the Road" headquarters are at present in Chicago.

Sheridan Webster is chairman of the St. Louis Populist committee. He and several assistants are giving out badges and securing information as to the standing of the different delegations. Mr. Webster asserts that there is no doubt about the "Middle of the Road" controlling the convention. He expects a two-thirds' majority, he says. This estimate is based upon information that has been received from different states and from what delegates have said who have reported at headquarters.

At headquarters many expressions were heard indicating a disapproval of the endorsement of Bryan. One of the leaders was asked if there would be a bolt in case Bryan was endorsed, and he replied that it would never reach that stage; that the "Middle of the Road" men would control the convention from the start. There is not very much being said about the candidates, the "Middle of the Road" men saying they are perfecting arrangements to control the convention first, and consider candidates afterward.

Bryan Organization.

The delegates to the Populist convention favorable to the endorsement of Mr. Bryan have made permanent the temporary organization, electing J. B. Weaver chairman, and Messrs. Bailey, Young and Merritt secretaries. They also appointed a steering committee, with Mr. Weaver as chairman, to take in hand the movement for the endorsement of Mr. Bryan, and to act very much as silver steerers did at the Democratic convention at Chicago. The committee is to canvass the delegations as they arrive, and besides doing missionary work among them, is to constantly report to the full committee. An imperfect canvass of the delegates, so far as they had arrived, was reported, as a result of which the Bryan people make the following claims as to delegates: Alabama, 54; Colorado, 45; Delaware, 3; Illinois, 27; Iowa, 30; Nebraska, 51; Oklahoma, 9; California, 19; Indiana, 70; Kansas, 92; Maryland, 9; Nevada, 7; Pennsylvania, 40; West Virginia, 8; District of Columbia, 4; Utah, 5.

Besides these claims, Bryan's friends say they have had assurance of a large part, if not all, of Minnesota, Missouri, Oregon, Washington and Ohio delegations.

The "Middle of the Road" faction do not admit claims. They say, for instance, in the case of California they will get all but three votes, and in Iowa a majority. They also claim that Missouri and Washington will be with them instead of with the Bryan people. They admit that Alabama is doubtful. It is claimed that the solid votes of Texas, Mississippi and Florida are against the endorsement of Bryan's policy, so far as heard from.

The prospect for a compromise, which some of the Populists affected for a while to consider probable, has disappeared. It met its fate in the Bryan camps, where it was smothered apparently beyond resuscitation.

The compromise proposition looking to the retention of Mr. Bryan at the head of the ticket, and substituting a Populist for Mr Sewall for vice president, was sprung in the small hours of the morning in a promiscuous meeting of party leaders. It was afterward adopted by the executive committee of the national committee and was by them exploited as a panacea, which would ease all the ills of the situation by uniting all the factions. The southern delegations accepted the scheme with avidity, on the theory that it would aid them in maintaining the entirety of the party for which they have held out so vigorously.

The Bryan people did not accept the suggestion from the beginning. They had no sooner heard of it than a Bryan meeting was called, which, in the forcible language of one who attended, "proceeded to immediately jump on it with both feet." This Bryan meeting and the one which followed, between representatives of the Bryan element and the executive committee, constituted the important events of the day. The result of these meetings is a probable split in the party, and the likelihood that the matter of endorsing Bryan or nominating another candidate, or the nomination of Bryan and another candidate than Sewall for vice president will have to be fought out in the convention.

The interesting proceedings began by a meeting of the executive committee in one of the rooms, and a meeting of the Bryan members in another. The prominent members of the Bryan movement, including J. B. Weaver, T. M. Patterson, Senator Stewart, Senator Allen, Jerry Simpson, Governor Llewellyn, and many others, were present at the Bryan meeting, where a very brief exchange of views was sufficient to convince all present that the proposition would not be entertained for a moment. While the meeting was in progress a message was received from the executive committee, asking that representatives of that element meet the executive officials for a conference on the compromise proposition.

This request was acceded to, and Messrs. Weaver, Patterson and Stewart were dispatched for that purpose. The joint meeting was a most spirited one, resulting in a short clash between the two factions. It was the first time the forces had been joined, and there was no mincing of words on either side. Messrs. Davis of Texas and Donnelly of Minnesota stood out stiffly for the compromise, and declared that if the Bryan people could not be satisfied with this proposition, it would be necessary to take the fight into the convention, which would, they claim, present a spectacle as humiliating to the Populist party as it would be edifying to its enemies. They asserted that it would be impossible to secure the assent of the rank and file to an unqualified endorsement of the entire Democratic ticket, and that a complete surrender would inevitably result in the disintegration and dismemberment of the party. This they declared they would never permit without a struggle to the bitter end.

On the other side, Messrs. Weaver, Patterson and Stewart spoke, and they met the assertions of their antagonists with the statement that the party could only be maintained by falling into line with another party which had adopted so many of the Populist principles, and nominated candidates so friendly to those principles. They maintained the opportunity was one which probably would never again be presented to secure the success of Populist principles. They contended that it was a patriotic duty to accept the Democratic nominees, that a wise party policy demanded this course, and that if the opportunity was lost, Bryan defeated and the country continued upon the gold standard platform, the irreconcilables would alone be to blame. Furthermore, they declared that the responsibility should be placed where it belonged, and that the country should know the facts regardless of individual sensibilities. They asserted that whatever course the Populist convention might pursue, the success of the party, who were looking more to relief from distress than to the advancement of the ambitions of any man, depended upon support of Bryan and Sewall. They defended Mr. Sewall as an acceptable candidate, and declared to attempt to displace him would lead to irreconcilable complications, prove impracticable, and place both parties in a ridiculous attitude.

Senator Stewart was especially emphatic in his denunciation of the unyielding spirit of the Middle-of-the-Road men, and left the conference in a most unamiable frame of mind. When the Bryan men left the room, they expressed the opinion that the differences existing would be carried into the convention. If this proves correct, the convention will doubtless be replete with interesting incidents.

Donnelly's Prediction.

Ignatius Donnelly of Minnesota, who has been in close conference with Chairman Taubeneck a great deal of the time since he has been here, says that although he is in favor of maintaining the Populist organization and putting a straight ticket in the field, there is every indication that they will be overriden, and Bryan be endorsed.

IGNATIUS DONNELLY.

"We have," said Mr. Donnelly, "built up our party in the face of ridicule and misrepresentation. We carried 22 electoral votes four years ago, and our party has grown steadily since. In two years our vote in Minnesota increased from 29,000 to 87,000. In the south and west our speakers educated the people on the silver question, and it was our work which was responsible for the declaration in favor of silver at Chicago. They stole our thunder, now they want to bury our party. There is no personal hostility to Bryan here, but we must maintain our organization."

Snooping In Pool Sellers.

Pawtucket, R. I., July 21.—The police made more arrests at the horse pool yesterday. Philip Brady and George A. Lied were arrested charged with keeping a poolroom and selling pools. When arraigned they pleaded not guilty, and were held in the sum of $200 each for trial. There have been three officers stationed in the poolroom every day since July 3, to prevent business.

MR. BUCHANAN'S LETTER

DENOUNCES THE REVIVAL OF AN OLD PLUTOCRATIC GAME.

An Effort to Bamboozle the "Voting Cattle"—Another Corporation Court—The Milwaukee Boycott—Recent Signs of American Patriotism.

[Special Correspondence.]

Political tricksters are again at the game of attempting to deceive and intimidate the workingmen. This is the usual game of each presidential and congressional election. This time the case of the plutes and the gamblers is desperate, and they and their minions are ready to employ extreme measures. The issues of the pending campaign are those which, if correctly understood, array the people upon one side and the plutocracy upon the other. No informed man fails to thoroughly understand that the leading issue at this time is the money question, primarily the struggle for the restoration of silver to the place it held for 80 years under our constitution. The common people have become educated during the past four years upon this question, and the money power realizes that if the coming election is decided squarely upon that issue its power to grind the sweat and bones of the country's producers into riches for the benefit of the few will be broken, perhaps forever.

Therefore the effort is being made to once more get up a sham fight over the tariff. No one believes that it will be possible to push aside as the main issue the question which the people have put to the front; for parties do not make issues, but issues make parties. But it has been shown that some sections of the country are always ready for fight on a question which affects, or which they think affects, them specially. Pennsylvania has always been fruitful ground in which to sow the seeds of tariff. The agents of plutocracy, realizing these facts, have begun their campaign in that state. A dastardly beginning it is too. The tin plate manufacturers through their organization have decided to reduce wages within the next few weeks. The reduction agreed upon at the recent meeting of the association at Pittsburg will average about 18 per cent. The claim will be that the existing tariff on tin plate makes such a wage reduction necessary.

The peculiar efficacy of this demand of the bosses as a campaign document will suggest itself to all. But to clearly show how the Manufacturers' association looked at it the following extract from the minutes of the meeting which decided upon the reduction is reproduced from a Pittsburg paper:

> Several members reported the managers of the coming Republican campaign as acquiescing in the idea that a reduction at this time would have a favorable effect on the election, especially when imposed on tin plate. There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

The "favorable effect" desired by the tin plate monopolists and the political managers referred to is to compass the election of a president and congress that will continue the reign of the Rothschilds, Morgans, Belmonts and other bloated Shylocks who are sapping the very life blood of this people. The scheme is to so far as possible obscure the real issue in the campaign by starving the workingmen into advocacy of another issue which is dishonestly raised.

I am not taking sides on the tariff question no more than I am on the controversy as to the authorship of Shakespeare's plays, and I hope I will not be accused of assailing any man's politics; but if there is any workingman in this country so ignorant as to believe that denunciation of a hellish scheme of the goldbugs is disloyalty to the cause of labor then I will have to submit to being written down in his books as a traitor. If the hellish designs of the emissaries of plutocracy, abetted by the tin plate bosses, are carried out, there will, of course, be a strike, as the employees cannot consent to the reduction proposed. Probably the unmasking of the scheme will put a stopper upon further proceedings along that line; but be that as it may, the workingmen of this country should be convinced by this last move of the plutocracy that their interests lie in a determined stand at the polls in November against the infernal scoundrels who have so clearly shown their desire to sell them out to the bondholding classes of this country and Europe.

I do not wish to be understood as claiming that the silver question is of supreme importance to the workers of the country. On the contrary I take the position that there are other questions of public policy that far surpass it in importance, and I believe it to be the duty of all the friends of labor to work with what ability they possess to bring those questions up for settlement and to settle them right. But we must take things as they are, not as we would like them to be, and the fight is on, though not of our making, between the contractionists and those whose interests lie in the direction of a more liberal policy, and every good citizen must choose his side. In fighting against the Shylocks I can find a place from which to strike at every stronghold of plutocracy, and I hope, dear reader, you will be able to do likewise. Whether you can or not rests with yourself; but that you can give aid to so pronounced a foe of the people as the bondholding, bloodsucking cormorants whose cruelty and deviltry are only hinted at in the infamous plot perfected at Pittsburg I cannot believe.

That the courts are so completely under the control of monopoly as to prevent a poor man from securing his rights at law has again been shown. A judge at Vincennes, Ind., has contributed the evidence this time. The case was that of a man named Drummond versus the Evansville and Terre Haute Railway company. Drummond charged that the company discharged him because of his connection with the A. R. U. strike in July, 1894, and by blacklisting him prevented him from obtaining employment on any other railway. The jury returned a verdict for Drummond and awarded him $3,500. The court set the verdict aside and ordered a new trial. This was a case in which the right of trial by jury was admitted and allowed, but in which the judge exercised as full powers as would have been possible to him had there been no jury. He decided that the blacklisting law of Indiana did not prohibit the railway company from "exposing" the fact that Drummond was no longer in its employ or from stating why he was not. This all wise judge also decided that there was no evidence to support the verdict. The 12 jurymen decided that there was such evidence, and they were intrusted with and sworn to be governed by the evidence. It is time to stop the farce of jury trials before corporation judges.

The Milwaukee street railway boycott was the grandest affair of the kind ever carried out by the organized laborers of this country. It was one of the "most magnificent things done under the American sky," says Henry D. Lloyd, the chivalrous champion of labor's rights. The boycott was supported by the citizens of Milwaukee because they fully realized the tyranny of the railway company toward its employees, and so long as organized labor in the city stood united in the battle the people refused to ride in the boycotted cars. But there came a time when division crept in and the organizations outside of those of the railway men lifted the boycott, and the grandest battle of years had to be abandoned. The division occurred over the action of the railway men in breaking their agreement to support the popular demand for municipal ownership of street railways. They threw their support to a new and rival corporation which was trying to secure franchise and rights of way. This is the way I get the story, and if it is true, here is another of those awful discouragements which are continually springing up in front of those who are striving to bring about better conditions for labor.

A recent cable from St. Petersburg contains information which convinces one that the police of that city have adopted measures in dealing with working people that are as yet apparently unknown to the police of New York, Chicago and some other American cities famous for their Russian methods. The strike of factory operatives, involving 40,000 employees, was for increased pay and shorter hours. Many employers were willing to concede the demands, but were forbidden so to do by the police. The operatives announced their intention of making a personal appeal to the czar, but the police took precautions to prevent them from carrying out the idea. Great are the police. We have long known that some of those in this country were greater than the czar, and now their brother clubbers of St. Petersburg have climbed to their side. Of course the police of St. Petersburg say the strike was incited by nihilists. In this country it is the socialist, anarchist and walking delegate who inform the workers that they are working long hours for low pay.

Two newspaper clippings which reached my desk simultaneously this morning strike me as constituting a coincidence worthy of noticing in this column. One of them was from the Cleveland Leader and was as follows:

> At a recent meeting of the Cleveland Central Labor union Isaac Cowen gave notice that he had begun the organization of "minute men" throughout the city. He said that the objects of the organization would be many. The temporary object, he said, would be to drill for the Labor day parade, while the permanent object would be to communicate information speedily to all the union men of the city. After the meeting he told a reporter that the men would be so thoroughly drilled that in the event of necessity they could aid in defending the city against a foreign or domestic foe of whatsoever kind. When asked whether one of the objects of the organization was to fight the authorities, he responded in the negative. "But if the money classes want to turn guns on us after we are organized they might find that our military training might be of some service to us," he remarked.

The other was from the New York Press. It was a reporter's account of a visit to the New York sweatshops, where a large proportion of the United States flags that are sold throughout the country are made. The wages, when work is steady in these awful dens, average less than $5 a week, and the women who stitch their very lives and souls into "Old Glory" work 12 and 14 hours a day. The half starved offspring of these slaves of the treadmill of Mammon are not likely to imbibe a great deal of patriotism from their wretched mothers. "Minute men" and sweatshop flags make a queer combination in a "land of the free and home of the brave."

Arbitration and Injunctions.

A committee appointed by the convention of state railroad commissioners to consider the matter of strikes has given its approval to a measure which provides for arbitration between railroads and their employees in contests involving the suspension of traffic or other inconveniences to the public.

The committee regards the use of the army and legal injunctions in labor wars with disfavor. They produce bad feeling, it says, and "nothing has gone further to impair faith in the federal courts than the manner in which, at certain times, their power has been exercised" against strikers.

New York Tailors.

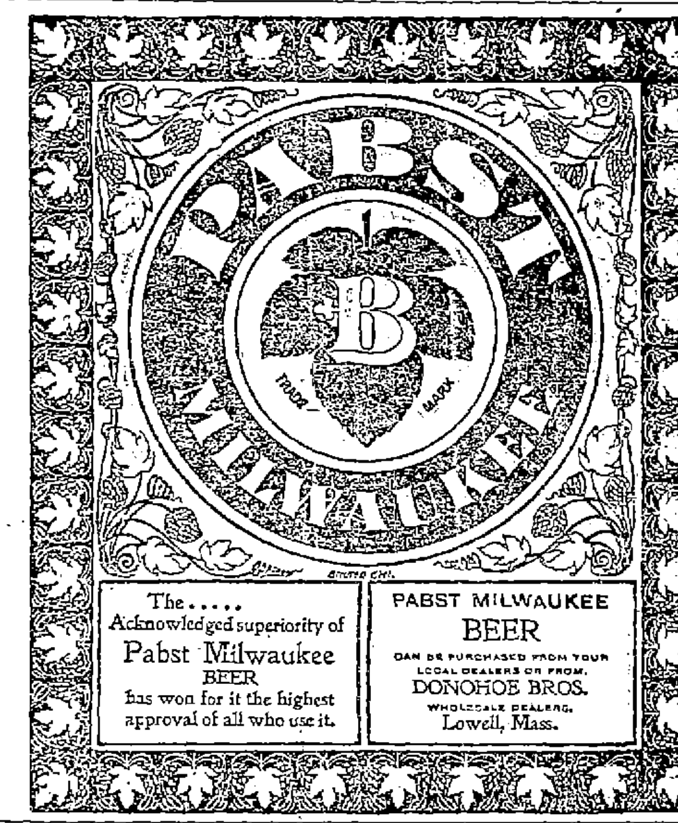

The membership of the Brotherhood of Tailors in New York is about 8,000, about 250 of whom are women and girls.

In Brooklyn the membership is about 4,000, of whom 1,000 are women and girls, and the membership in Brownsville, a suburb of Brooklyn, is about 1,500.

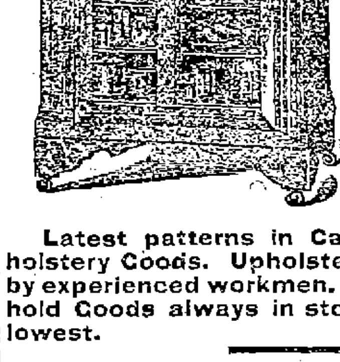

The aim of the United Garment Workers, with which the Brotherhood of Tailors is affiliated, is to abolish the contract system altogether. The contractors will then become either operators or superintendents of clothing factories.

Alabama Miners' Scale.

A Birmingham (Ala.) correspondent says: The new wage scale of the 10,000 coal miners in this district went into effect July 1 to continue for two years. It grants the miner an advance of 7 per cent in wages; 40 cents per ton instead of 37½ cents is made the minimum price to be paid when pig iron is worth $8.50 or less per ton; an advance of 2½ cents per ton for coal mining is to follow every advance of 50 cents in the price of iron. This advance prevented a strike.

With the Track Athletes.

The famous B. A. A. team, Burke, Curtis, Hope, Bennett and Hubbard is entered in the team race for next Saturday. They will be pitted against the East Boston team that defeated them at the recent meet at Glen Forest.

At Oak Island, next Thursday, Wefers will try to break the 75 and 135 yards record. He says he will not fail to break the 300 yards record on the Fair Grounds on Saturday. His confidence leads many to suspect that he has already broken the record in private trials. With Wefers bent on making a record, one may expect to see some flying.

The entries for the Burkes' meet closed last night. Up to yesterday noon there were 90 entries, and this number was brought up to 128 when the afternoon mail was received. Then, of course there are other entries sent direct to the handicapper.

The handicaps will be announced Wednesday and the figuring on the winners will commence.

Wefers will run in the 100, 220, 300 and 440 yards races.

Al. Bennington, the famous N. Y. A. C. man, sent word yesterday that he will be on hand Saturday.

The final arrangements will be announced in a few days.

BOXING GOSSIP.

George V. Tuohey, sporting editor of the Boston Post, got out a very bright sporting paper in Sunday's edition, spreading himself interestingly in all kinds of legitimate sport. Concerning the Flaherty-Gans match he writes as follows:

"The 20-round contest between Martin Flaherty and Joe Gans, which is to be decided at Baltimore on July 27, should prove interesting. Flaherty, since his draw with Dixon, has been sought by many clubs, but resolved to rest for a while. The challenge of Gans was so pointed, however, that the Lowellite had nothing to do but accept, and though he has made a great weight concession, his friends are sanguine as to the outcome of the bout. 'Gans resembles Dixon in point of physique,' said a well-known sport follower, 'and I understand that he has copied Dixon's style pretty thoroughly, so that in meeting Gans, Flaherty will probably work on the same lines he did when he boxed the champion. We have no way of comparing Gans and Flaherty up here except by the showing of both men against Jimmy Kennard, the St. Paul Kid. You will recall to mind that Flaherty stopped Kennard in less than one round, while it took Gans four or five to show superiority over the westerner. The claim is made that Gans was sick at the time. Well, Flaherty was a long way from being in good condition when he met Kennard. No matter who the winner is, I feel that the bout will be very Tobasco from the call of time until a winner is seen. The distance is in favor of Flaherty, for he grows better as he goes along.'"

FREE SILVER LEAGUE.

Secures Quarters and Appoints Necessary Committees to do Work.

The Free Silver league accomplished more business at its meeting last night, than at any of the two previous meetings held.

The league was hampered in its work and attendance by the failure of some one to notify the janitor of Huntington hall that a meeting be held, and also by the weather.

Bernard D. O'Connell, Esq., however, helped them out of the predicament by offering the use of his office, and the meeting was held there.

It was stated that quarters for the league had been obtained in the Bon Marche building, and a flag will be raised.

Messrs. Edward Rogers, B. D. O'Connell, Frank J. Simonds, Edward Cogger, and James J. Dacey, and the chairman was appointed a press committee and they were instructed to wait on the publisher of The Sun and request him to publish a morning edition of the paper. Several of the members praised The Sun for its position and for its fair treatment and honest reports of the meetings.

Messrs. John F. Murphy, Edward Cogger and Henry J. Johnson were appointed a finance committee, and Messrs. O'Connell, Dacey and Cogger a committee on rules.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. O'Connell for the use of his office, and the league adjourned to meet in the citizens' committee room at 8 o'clock next Thursday evening.

LAST FOND LOOK

On the Face of Ex-Gov. Russell

TAKEN BY OVER 30,000 OF HIS ADMIRERS.

Great Outpouring of Sorrow and Sympathy.

Cambridge, Mass., July 21.—It was not alone from Cambridge that people came to take a last look at the face of William E. Russell, yesterday. Every car from Boston brought its contribution to the great gathering that filled the sidewalks of Massachusetts avenue, near city hall, and other people came on foot and in carriages from all around. As the people reached the neighborhood of the building, before entering, they were formed in two double lines. They were allowed to move up the steps to the entrance first from one line, then from the other, changing to a column of four abreast as they advanced. The police controlled the crowd until the walk was reached, leading to the portal; then the militiamen preserved order. Inside the portal of the building, which was draped with festoons of black, relieved by the national colors, the members of the First corps of cadets were stationed. They proved efficient managers, for a slight motion of the hand, from time to time, or a word of direction, served to keep the throng moving quietly and in perfect order, yet rapidly.

At first the people passed the bier in double files, but after the first rush was over, they were allowed to pass in single file, one line on either side of the canopy. Thence each line passed through the corridors to rear doors, one on either side. The number of people who viewed the body can be estimated from the statement that for the first few minutes they passed the bier at the rate of nearly 100 a minute, on each side, and this rate showed only a slight diminution during the later hours. Probably 30,000 people passed the body in the three hours during which it lay in state.

The body was removed at 3 o'clock from city hall to the Shepard Memorial church, where an hour later the last services were tenderly administered. The services were very impressive in their nature. Long before the hour appointed the beautiful edifice was crowded with the most prominent citizens of the city, state and country. Admission to the church was strictly by ticket, and so extensive was the demand for the coveted card that the supply gave out completely early in the day. Among the first to arrive at the church was President Cleveland and Lieutenant Governor Wolcott, attended by Adjudant General Dalton. Here they were met by Chief Justice Fuller of the supreme court of the United States, who had come from Sorrento, Me. All four of the distinguished personages were escorted to the front pew. The rest of the church rapidly filled, and shortly before 4 o'clock the immediate family were escorted up the aisle to the pew opposite the president. The ushers were classmates of Governor Russell.

The singing at the church was by an augmented choir, taken from the boys' choirs of the St. Paul's church of Boston, the Appleton chapel and Christ church of Cambridge, assisted by the Albion male quartet of Boston. W. A. Locke was organist and director. Before the body was taken to the church selections were given by the quartet from Cherubini's requiem mass and from Bach's "Passion" music.

As the body was carried into the church, "I Heard a Sound of Voices" was sung by the choir. This was followed by a reading of scripture by Rev. Alexander McKenzie, after which the chorus sang "Forever with the Lord." The prayer by Dr. McKenzie was followed by a solo, "I Heard a Voice from Heaven."

Dr. McKenzie then delivered the eulogy on Governor Russell, a tribute that was remarkable for its beauty of language, depth of feeling and pathos. He said among other things: "We are not here for eulogy. The smitten nerves, the broken hearts, are not yet still enough for us to tell in formal sentences the meaning of this life, and to gather the teachings which are its bequests. This service is for sympathy and prayer. In our bewilderment the first thought which touches our grief is of the brevity of the years which are told.

"Gone 'ere his prime,' we say. Length of days would have indeed been length of influence and the extension of fame. Yet days cannot measure life, nor set bounds to its course. 'What thou livest, live well.' The life which is the same as his has flowed from its mysterious urn, a sacred stream not to disappear, but under other names to make the earth green and fruitful where it runs.

"Along the path he trod, others of less daring, will find their way. This is to live. Life is in three dimensions. What his lacked in one, being here, was made up in two. It was a cube, not a line or a plane. He has had length of years enough to disclose the secret of nobility and give it ample illustration."

As the body was borne from the church by the pallbearers, the entire congregation rose to their feet while the choir sang, "For all the saints who from their labors rest."

Only the immediate family, with a few intimate friends, followed the remains to the newly-made grave in Mt. Auburn cemetery. The lot itself is a new one, and was purchased only Saturday by the Russell family. The body of the father of Governor Russell, Hon. Charles Theodore Russell, was removed from the tomb yesterday, and today father and son repose side by side beneath the outstretched branches of a sturdy oak tree.

The services at the grave were short, Dr. McKenzie reading only a portion of the regular service, and closing the impressive exercises of the day by a brief prayer.

THE DWINDLING RESERVE.

Treasury Officials Think Present Raid Will Not Last Much Longer.

Washington, July 21.—The gold reserve went below the $90,000,000 mark today for the first time in many months, and at the close of business the actual figure was $89,761,336, a reduction of $3,706,300 for the day. Of the withdrawals, $3,033,000 was for export. Treasury officials look upon this heavy golden drain as entirely abnormal, and are confident that it will not continue, at least so heavily. They say there is nothing in trade conditions to warrant the exports, adding, that although exchange is almost a point above the shipping point in normal times, the conditions are such in their judgment as to make it uncertain whether it can be profitable at present. In the absence of Secretary Carlisle no one can speak authoritatively respecting the probability of another issue of bonds to replenish the reserve in the near future, but the general trend of opinion was that such a thing was not to be expected.

Officials are satisfied with the manner in which they have gotten so far through the month of July. This is always a trying month, the beginning of the fiscal year letting loose a lot of appropriations for miscellaneous objects, as well as for rivers and harbors and pensions. The total expenditures for the month have reached $31,118,000, which leaves a deficit of $12,091,294, but this is no more than was expected, while encouragement is found in the fact that the receipts have averaged well up to $1,000,000 per diem, and that much of this increase is composed of international revenue receipts, an indication that whisky in bond has at last been drawn upon.

Cilley Didn't Show Up.

Boston, July 21.—The adjournment of the hearing on the Stetson will in the probate court yesterday did not lack interest. At the first hearing, Dr. C. S. Cilley, one of the witnesses to the will, was absent, in spite of the fact that a personal summons had been served upon him by a constable. By order of the court, Dr. Cilley was defaulted, but counsel stated that there was no doubt that he would be present at the next hearing day. Dr. Noyes, another witness to the will, was also absent Wednesday, but appeared in court yesterday. Dr. Cilley was still among the missing, and some interesting developments are anticipated at the next hearing, provided he does not show up. Dr. Cilley was John Stetson's medical adviser, and it was he who suggested that Dr. Noyes and his own coachman should be the other witnesses of the millionaire's will, besides himself. It is anticipated that Dr. Cilley can throw considerable light on the condition of Mr. Stetson before he died.

Thinning Out the Dockets.

London, July 21. — In the house of commons yesterday, A. J. Balfour moved suspension of the midnight rule for the remainder of the session, and also that government bills may be taken up at any hour, though opposed. Mr. Balfour said that private bills, including the benefice bill, must be sacrificed, owing to the nearness of the day for adjournment, Aug. 14. He also announced the dropping of a half dozen minor measures. Mr. Balfour said that he feared that there would not be time to pass the deceased wife's sister bill, but he proposed to continue efforts for the passage of the Irish land bill.

Declared a Draw.

New York, July 21.—The six-round go between "Kid" Lavigne and Charlie McKeever attracted 3000 people to the Madison Square Garden last night. The fighting was of a very mild order at first, but was one of the most scientific events ever seen here during the latter half. The referee, according to a previous arrangement, both men being on their feet, declared the bout a draw. It is believed that the result will lead to the matching of the two men.

Talked Over Old Times.

Hingham, Mass., July 21.—The New England Association of Mexican War Veterans held a pleasant reunion for the 48th time at Nantasket Beach, yesterday. General Chamberlain of Barre Plains, Vt., and General Nelson Vialls of Cranston, R. I., were re-elected commander and lieutenant commander, respectively, together with the old board of officers. Apart from a brief business session, the day was given up to reminiscences and dining.

Literary War Weapons.

Washington, July 21.—As one result of the conference between Chairman Babcock of the congressional committee and Mark Hanna and Major McKinley, last week, the scope of the work of the congressional committee is to be greatly widened during the coming campaign. The Republican congressional committee from this time on will perform more work in different fields than has ever devolved upon any previous congressional committee. In the last campaign the congressional committee confined its labors to about 100 congressional districts, but in this campaign it will widen its field of operations to take in every place in the United States where there is a chance for a contest. The number of campaign documents that will be sent out between now and next November by the congressional committee will reach the millions. From one state alone an order has been received for 700,000 documents, and there are a number of orders for 400,000 and 600,000. The majority of these documents will bear upon the financial question. The congressional committee will get out the campaign book this year, and is now at work on it.

The Democratic congressional committee has been a little slower in beginning work than the Republican committee, but will push matters from this time on, Chairman Faulkner reaching the city today and taking hold of the work in earnest.

Railroads Suffer.

Centralia, Ills., July 21.—The railroads running into Centralia have suspended running trains on account of washouts, the result of heavy rains. A St. Louis passenger train struck a washout east of here, and a passenger coach was turned over. A tramp riding on the platform was killed. The Illinois Central had a washout south of here, and no trains have left for the south.

THE VENEZUELAN SIDE.

As Summed Up by Those Working In Behalf of the Republic.

Washington, July 21.—The first part of a brief, prepared by James J. Storrow, of counsel for Venezuela, in conjunction with Mr. Scruggs, the legal adviser of that government, has just been completed and submitted for consideration of the Venezuelan boundary commission. The brief is framed as an answer to the general summary of the British case, as set out in the British Blue Book devoted to the Venezuelan dispute, and, like that, is an argument based upon the evidence collected by the agents of the government interested. The leading points of the document are the attack upon the integrity of the Schomburgk line, as it now appears upon the British maps; the assertion of the priority of settlement of the disputed territory by the Spaniards; the denial of the jurisdiction of the Dutch beyond the reach of the guns of their ships at any time, and the claim that the territory, which it desired to throw into arbitration, does not even today contain any settlements, so that Lord Salisbury's solicitude for the welfare of the British settlers is ill-founded.

The International Chess Tourney.

Nuremberg, July 21.—Following are the results of the first round of the international chess masters' tournament, played in this city yesterday: Schiffers beat Albin in a Zukertort opening after 32 moves. Lasker beat Porges in a Ruy Lopez after 37 moves. Janovsky beat Maroo in a Ruy Lopez after 30 moves. Steinitz beat Schallopp in a queen's gamit declined after 46 moves. Tschigorin beat Winawer in a Vienna game after 36 moves. Charousek beat Showalter in a king's gamit declined after 54 moves. Walbrodt and Schlechts drew a Scotch game after 31 moves. Tarrach Maroozy drew a queen's gamit declined after after 62 moves. Blackburn and Teichmann drew a two-knights' defense after 37 moves. Fillsbury had a bye.

Death of Bishop Coxe.

Rochester, July 21. — Arthur Cleveland Coxe, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of western New York, died suddenly of nervous prostration yesterday, at the Clifton Springs sanitarium, where he had been spending a few days. He was about to leave for his residence in Buffalo, and just before taking the train was stricken with a fainting spell, from which he did not revive. Arthur Cleveland Coxe was born in Mendham, N. J., in 1818. He graduated at the University of the City of New York in 1838, and at the general theological seminary of the Episcopal church in 1841. He was ordained deacon on June 27, 1841, and priest on Sept. 25, 1842.

Civilization's Progress.

Washington, July 21.—The announcement of the decision of the Chinese empire to establish a government postal service is followed by an official communication from the foreign office of China, by which the empire announces its intention in organizing a postal service to admit without any additional charge, on and after July 1, 1897, all articles prepaid at the union rates destined for a certain number of places in China, subsequently to make a formal application for the admission of China to the universal postal union.

COMMUNICATION.

How the Money Kings Control Labor and Cause Panics.

Editor Sun:—

Knowing that you, through the medium of your valuable paper are always ready to give information and stand up for the masses oppressed and downtrodden, I ask you if you will kindly find a corner in the Sun for the following circulars.

The first is the Hazzard circular, an original copy of which is held at present by Col. Jesse Harper of Danville, Illinois and others and was circulated among Americans by an English banker named Charles Hazzard in the summer of 1862 and is as follows:

"Slavery is likely to be abolished by the war power and chattel slavery destroyed. This I and my European friends are in favor of, for slavery is but the owning of labor and carries with it the care for the laborer while the European plan, led on by England, is capital control of labor by controlling the wages. This can be done by controlling the money. The great debt that capitalists will see to it is made out of the war must be used as a measure to control the volume of money. To accomplish this, bonds must be used as a banking basis. It will not do to allow the greenback as it is called to circulate as money for any length of time; for we cannot control them but we can control the bonds and through them the bank issue.

Senator Daniel of Virginia, in a speech delivered in the senate May 22, 1890, said: I take from the Bankers Magazine of Aug., 1873, a little extract. It says in 1872 silver being demonetized in Germany, England and Holland, a capital of $500,000 was raised, and Ernest Tyell was sent to this country with this fund as an agent for foreign bond holders to effect the same object, the demonetization of silver.

The Panic Circular.

Dear Sir: The interests of national bankers require immediate financial legislation by congress. Silver certificates and treasury notes must be retired and national bank notes upon a gold basis made the only money. This will require the authorization of from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 of new bonds as a basis of circulation. You at once retire one-third of the circulation and call in one-half of your loans.

Be careful to make a money stringency felt among your patrons, especially among influential business men; advocate an extra session of congress for the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law, and act with the banks of your city in securing a large petition to congress for its unconditional repeal as per accompanying form. Use personal influence with congressmen, and particularly let your wishes be known to senators, the future life of national banks as fixed, and safe investments depends upon immediate action as there is an increasing sentiment in favor of government legal tender notes and silver coinage, the first, last and main cause of the present financial situation is in the policy of the government in issuing $4,000,000 worth of silver coin each month and flooding the country with which at only 65 cents to the dollar. This has caused European brokers and owners of bonds to get a little shy of our policy. Matters have been coming to a head during the past two weeks and New York capitalists have been calling in their loans, and consequently causing some men to get squeezed.

The above was issued March 12, 1893, by the American Bankers' association to all national banks, and is taken from a small book called Cold Facts, and I should like every working man to read and study it.

It looks as if the money kings had things in their own hands to cause a panic any time they see fit. How long are the people to be held down by the corporation trusts money lenders? Why cannot the government make and issue money directly to the people at one per cent. on good security same as they do to the banks?

You can fool all the people part of the time and part of the people all the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time, said Lincoln.

I should like you to start a morning paper, I would be a subscriber to it, for I am disgusted with the present papers.

The Sun is the best workingmen's paper in Lowell. Go ahead and stand by the people and you will come out all right.

MERRELL-SOULE CO., Syracuse, N. Y.

Won't Talk at Present.

Indianapolis July 21.—General Harrison is making preparations for his start east. "This matter of silver," he said, yesterday, "is one that cannot be properly discussed in an interview. I should want to prepare such a report with the greatest care and deliberation, and it is proper to discuss the question only after such preparation, and then in a speech and not in an interview. I shall give some time to the campaign, but it is hardly probable, I think, that the campaign will open much more before September. The issue demands the closest study by every citizen, and needs to be treated in the most effective way possible. I cannot consent now to be quoted on the subject in a formal interview."

General Harrison expects to leave the city before the end of the week.

Terrible Swede Knocked Out.

Memphis, July 21.—Billy O'Donnell and John Lawson (the Terrible Swede) met here last night in a finish fight, and the Swede's seconds threw up the sponge after 28 rounds of fighting, lasting one hour and 51 minutes. In the early part of the fight O'Donnell punished the Swede severely. The Swede was very game and showed wonderful endurance. A great many fouls were committed, especially by O'Donnell.

Dying Out.

Cairo, July 21.—The cholera in Egypt shows a great abatement according to yesterday's reports, which show that there were 159 new cases and 119 deaths yesterday. There were, however, no deaths here or in Alexandria.

Railroad Out of Sight.

Skowhegan, Me., July 21.—Over 200 feet of the new roadbed of the Sebasticook and Moosehead railroad, in Harmony, has sunk from sight under 15 feet of water. The road was built through a bog.

More Christians Massacred.

Athens, July 21.—Ten Christians have been massacred at Heraklion, in the Island of Crete. French and English men-of-war have arrived there.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

THE Royal Baking Powder makes sweeter, lighter, finer-flavored and more wholesome bread, biscuit and cake than any other leavening agent. It is of higher strength, and therefore more economical. All government and scientific tests show that as a leavening agent it is actually without an equal.

Royal is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.—U. S. Gov't Chemist's Report.

From the Outlook.

We see strange changes in the attitude of the christian world. A Presbyterian pastor in a village where was situated a Roman Catholic school was disturbed by the boys playing ball on Sunday. Complaining to the apostolic delegate he receives a polite and prompt reply, and the Sunday base ball was at once stopped. It is hardly fair to insist that the policy of Rome in the same as it was 300 years ago. The higher officials may be approached and we receive not only a polite reply but prompt action.

Clear for the Circus.

Clarence L. Dean, the genial press agent of Barnum's circus, was in town Saturday and was much pleased to find that Gorham street would be unobstructed on circus day. The sewer machine has been removed.

THE COLOR LINE.

White and Colored Operatives Can't Agree in Southern Mills.

The Massachusetts corporation of this city, it is stated, is having trouble at its mill in Rome, Ga., owing to the employment of a number of colored women. The white employes refused to work with the colored people, and undoubtedly the managers will soon come to the conclusion that they must employ either all white people or all colored for the better positions at least.

Agent Southworth of the Massachusetts says he has heard of no such trouble.
